Kashin's Raise Bid Lowered

Economy minded directors of the Marin County Transit District last night shelved the district annual 5-cent tax levy and refused Manager Seymour Kashin's bid for a 19 per cent pay raise.

The tax levy, which Supervisor Peter H. Behr reminded was approved four years ago by 80 per cent of Marin's voters, was dropped by a 4-3 vote, with Behr, Thomas T. Storer and Mayor Dean H. Meyer of Mill Valley voting to retain it.

Behr, who had said earlier that he would vote against levying the tax for the third year in a row, announced a change of heart after an eloquent plea for retention of the tax by commute-conscious Thomas D. Hardcastle, Marin director on the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

Hardcastle told the board he stopped riding the buses to San Francisco in 1952 because "the service was rotten, they were uncomfortable, the ventilation was horrible. It's true it only took 45 minutes to get from Novato to San Francisco ... "

He soon lost his enchantment with the automobile, though, becoming more and more irritated with the drive as the years passed. A recent auto crash put him back on the buses.

"And you know, they're the same damn buses, its the same lousy service and horrible ventilation. The only difference is that now it takes an hour and a quarter instead of 45 minutes," he said.

Hardcastle urged a deluxe transportation system from Marin and said the alternative is the end of Marin as a bedroom community. San Francisco and the bridge district will help finance the system, but Marin must show through its tax levy that it is willing to pay a share, he said.

Kashin urged retention of the levy, saying its abandonment now "would be ill-timed in view of the fact that the districts is now so close to actual operation."

The work program approved by the board should mean recommendations for action within six to 18 months, he said. The levy could also bring funds to allow experimentation with various services during this fiscal year, he added.

The levy loss will not affect the work program, formally approved last night, but will cut the district's reserves at the end of the year from a proposed $551,396 to $301,167.

Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen said he refuses "to continue voting a 5-cent tax on a dream. I've been opposed to the tax rate since its inception."

He was joined in opposition to

A WHATSIT — A visitor to Kent Lake, perhaps resembling this sketch by Independent-Journal artist Jack Lucey, is blamed for bad tasting water.

WOODSY WISP

Creature 'Bugs' Taste Of Water

The water in Central Marin may taste terrible but it won't hurt you.

Officials of the Marin Municipal Water District said today they are well aware that the water coming from the Kent Reservoir, which serves Central Marin, has an unpleasant taste.

The cause is an organism which lives at the bottom of the reservoir, according to James Farnkopf, sanitary engineer for the district. "Rain runoff conditions last winter plus the warm summer weather have ocmbined to make perfect conditions for the growth," Farnkopf explained.

The below-normal rainfall means that the water has more minerals concentrated in it, Farnkopf said, on which the growth feeds, and it also thrives in warm weather.

The growth, which is somewhere between algae and a fungus in characteristics, has not been identified by botanical name. It is the same organism, however, which is responsible for the woodsy smell sometimes noticeable in a forest after a warm rain.

Ancient Egyptian records speak of this same growth in river mud, Farnkopf said.

The district engineers have tried various methods to improve the taste of the water but to no avail. Farnkopf said, however, that with the advent of cooler weather, the growth, like a wildflower, will have completed its cycle and die.

In the meantime, district engineers test the water daily for safety and treat it chemically so that no harmful bacteria are left in the water.

Kent reservoir is the only one affected by the growth this year, Farnkopf said. Water in Northern and Southern Marin comes from other reservoirs and tastes fine.

Clifford Sets Saigon Visit, Fears Attack

Will Join Johnson, Thieu For Conference In Hawaii

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford announced today he would fly to Saigon Saturday for conferences on "the possibility of a new enemy offensive" in South Vietnam this month or in August.

Clifford will be accompanied on his trip to Vietnam by Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

The defense chief told a news conference intelligence reports indicated a "great deal of enemy activityity in I Corps" area and around Saigon.

"I believe we must anticipate the possibility of a new offensive on the part of enemy forces this month or possibly in August," Clifford said.

"General Wheeler and I will wish to talk this over in great detail with Gen. Creighton Abrams and chief commanders in the field." Abrams is the new U.S. military comander in Vietnam, having succeeded Gen. William C. Westmorland July 1.

Clifford said that after the Saigon conference, he would fly to Honolulu to join with President Johnson and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, at a meeting set for about July 20.

While in Vietnam, Clifford said his particular interest will be a report on progress toward the day when South Vietnamese forces can take over a greater share of the fighting. Yesterday Thieu said he hopes U.S. forces can begin to withdraw next year.

Clifford expressed serious concern that another big Communist offensive might be brewing. Despite a recent lull in the fighting, he said, intelligence reports indicate a great deal of Viet Cong activity behind the scenes.

The secretary also said:

Limiting U. S. bombing below the 20th parallel in North Vietnam has not made it less effective.

He definitely favors going ahead with missile programs, including the $5 billion "thin" antimissile defense system despite preparations for negotiations with the Russians on limitation and reduction of such weapons.

No thought is being given to increasing the number of U. S. troops in Vietnam —that the present force is "adequate and sufficient to repel any offensive."

Paper Says Reagan Running

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan plans to announce he will actively seek the Republican nomination for president, the Boston Herald Traveler said today in a copyright story. The report was met with a denial by a Reagan aide.

Lyn Nofziger, the governor's communications director, said, "I'll tell you positively it isn't going to happen." He said the story is "completely without foundation."

The newspaper said Reagan would announce his candidacy in a nationwide television broadcast on July 21 and had reserved air time at a cost of $300,000.

Nofziger said the broadcast time had been reserved but the program would be a film of a speech that Reagan had given in Indianapolis earlier. He did not give the subject of the speech.

Reagan, a favorite-son candidate, has previously said he will become a candidate for president the moment his name is placed in nomination at the Republican National Convention in August and not before.

The Herald Traveler story by James Mahoney said Reagan's announcement would be made the day he is heading toward Cincinnati for the National Governor's Conference.

The newspaper story said some politicians consider Reagan's entry into the presidential race "the last hope of stop the nomination of Richard M. Nixon."

Diamond Lady Hides —Wanted For Treason

SAIGON (UPI)—The lady wore diamonds. Now she hides in the jungle, wanted for high treason against South Vietnam.

Miss Duong Quynh Hoa, 42, displayed her success as a French-trained obstetrician with flashy stones on her fingers. Friends said they were big as marbles; business was good.

She traveled in fast company, Saigon's "jet set." Among her friends was a Trinh Dinh Thao, a 67-year-old lawyer educated in France, who had one estate near, President Nguyen Van Thieu's and another in the suburbs.

Then one day about two months ago, telling no one, Miss Hoa, Thao and his wife and several other wealthy friends disappeared. Friends worried for them.

Radio Hanoi allayed those fears. A broadcast two days later congratulated Thao as the founder of the Alliance for National Democratic and Peace Forces, a Communist-front organization with "peace and neutralism" as its platform.

The government filed charges against Miss Hoa and Thao and eight other members of the front's central committee.

Now the government has put them on trial, in absentia, for "working for the Communists under the cover of appeals for peace and neutrality," a crime punishable by death. There is no doubt they will be convicted and their property confiscated.

"Why, Thao was a good friend of mine. I knew him when we were students in France," said the government's information minister, Tran Van An. "I can't

U.S. Viet Casualties Decrease

SAIGON (UPI) — American casualties in Vietnam dropped to their lowest total in six months last week, the U.S. command said today. A total of 198 GIs were killed and 1,247 wounded.

A spokesman said the 1,446 Americans killed or wounded was the lowest weekly casualty toll since the week ending Jan. 6 and reflected a general lull in ground action across South Vietnam.

Communist losses for the week were the lowest of the year — 961 killed, the announcement said. But that figure was expected to be revised upwards when late field reports are tallied, a spokesman said.

The latest casualty report raised to 25,752 the number of Americans killed in the Vietnam War and boosted the number of wounded to 160,693. Another 1,187 Americans are listed as either missing or captured.

Meanwhile in the war itself, U.S. forces late yesterday caught a guerrilla band on a main Communist route to Saigon and killed 23 in an eight-hour, two-act battle.

American helicopter gunships spotted the Communists nestled in bunkers 32 miles northwest of Saigon, near the Cambodian border, and in a blaze of fire killed 10. U.S. footsoldiers swarmed in two hours later, scrambled through a heavy burst of machinegun and rocket fire and killed at least 13 more.

In the air war, U.S. B52 Stratofortresses continued their pounding of Communist troop areas in the Saigon area and in other Red pockets up to the North Vietnam border.

Clark Backs LBJ Power To Nominate Abe Fortas

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark told senators today President Johnson "beyond question" had the power to nominate Abe Fortas as chief justice while retiring Earl Warren still held the Supreme Court post.

Clark testified before the Senate Judiciary Committee at the opening of hearings on Johnson's nomination of two long-time friends to the court—Fortas to be chief justice and Homer Thornberry to be an associate justice.

Clark cited historical precedent after precedent in an effort to dispel the argument of some senators that no vacancy exists because of the language Warren used in a letter to Johnson announcing his intention to retire after 15 years as the nation's chief judicial officer. Warren said he would step down at a time "at the pleasure" of the President.

"The manner in which retirement has been effected has varied," Clark said. "The method which best serves the public interest is retirement at the pleasure of the President."

Both Democratic and Republican supporters of Johnson's nominations are confident they

Lawyers Claim Army Hurting Men's Rights

By STEPHEN COOK

The United States Army is trying to deny adequate legal counsel to soldiers opposed to the war in Vietnam by moving a special processing detachment for AWOL soldiers out of the Bay Area, a panel of lawyers charged today.

In a press conference prompted by a letter said to have been written by Col. Robert E. McMahon, commander of the Presidio of San Francisco, three members of the Lawyers' Selective Service Panel charged the Army with ignoring the rights of its enlisted men.

Copies of the letter, allegedly written by Col McMahon to the General of the Sixth U.S. Army, were distributed today by lawyers Aubrey Grossman and Terrance Hallinan of San Francisco and Noel Martin of 200 Elinor Avenue, Mill Valley. Hallinan formerly lived in Marin County.

The letter asked transfer of the special processing detachment "to prevent further unfavorable criticism of the Army caused by indifferent, irresponsible, ineffective soldiers awaiting dispostion at the Presidio of San Francisco."

Colonel McMahon reportedly stated in the letter that the problem is acute "because the Presidio is located in the San Francisco area where the press is particularly inclined to give attention to sensational stories involving the Army."

SPOCK TRIAL REACTION—Carole Van Aelstyn, 28, mother of four and wife of San Francisco State English professor Edward Van Aelstyn, 32, burns what she says is his draft card in front of the Federal Building in San Francisco. Eight other Bay Area women yesterday took part in similar burnings sponsored by the Resistance, in protest to the sentencing of Dr. Benjamin Spock and others in Boston.

Dr. Spock Continues Opposing Viet War

BOSTON (AP) —Dr. Benjamin Spock says he will continue his active opposition to the Vietnam war despite a two-year prison sentence and a $5,000 fine for antidraft activities.

"I'm still not convinced I broke any law," Spock said yesterday after he and three other men were sentenced in U.S. District Court. "There's not a shred of legality in the Vietnam war."

The 65-year-old pediatrician was convicted with his co-defendants June 14 on charges of onspiring to counsel, aid and abet young men to evade the draft.

Judge Francis J. W. Ford also imposed two-year prison sentences on Yale University Chaplain William Sloane Coffin Jr., 43; author Mitchell Goodman, 44, of Temple, Maine, and Harvard graduate student Michael Ferber, 23.

Coffin and Goodman were fined $5,000 and Ferber was fined $1,000.

Ford stayed the sentences and continued the defendants' $1,000 bonds pending their appeals to the U.S. Circuit Court.

The maximum sentence was five years in prison and $10,000 fines.

Ford told the crowded courtroom, "where law and order stops obviously anarchy begins . . . high or low, the intellectual as well as all others, must be deterred from violation of the law."

Seated in the spectator's section was Marcus Raskin, 34, a Washington research director. He was a co-defendant in the month-long trial and was acquitted.

At a news conference after the sentencing, Spock repeated his contention that the Vietnam war is illegal, an argument that Judge Ford rejected as a defense at the trial.

"I say to the American people wake up!" the pediatrician said in a loud voice sometimes breaking with emotion. "This war could be stopped if millions of Americans stood up and shouted: 'Let's stop this war'!'"

Spock and the other defendants also appeared at a two-hour antiwar rally on Boston Common. Paul Lauter, national director of the antiwar organization Resist, said 11 draft cards were turned in at the rally.

U.S. Supreme Court Losing Public Favor

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI)—A Gallup Poll released Wednesday showed the U.S. Supreme Court losing favor in the nation.

Only 36 per cent of persons questioned checked either "excellent," or "good," when asked, "In general, what kind of rating would you give the Supreme Court"

Fifty three per cent of the 1,534 adults polled checked either "fair," or "poor."

In a 1967 poll the figures were 45 and 46 per cent respectively.

The latest poll, conducted during the last weekend in June and not meant to reflect President Johnson's recent appointments, shows the court has comparatively little support from Southerners, Republicans and persons over 30.

Vatican Given Water From Days Of Christ

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Water from Antarctica snow and ice dating back to the time of Jesus Christ was born is going to be sent to the Vatican.

Ice taken from McMurdo Sound in Operation Deep Freeze and analyzed by scientists of the National Science Foundation was melted yesterday at the U.S. Naval Academy science laboratory.

Three blocks of ice in five-foot sections weighed 130 pounds and yielded 15 gallons of water. A portion of the water will be sent to the Vatican while another portion will be placed in the Naval Academy Chapel. Another portion of the water is to be mixed with water from the seven seas at the academy which is used during a ring dipping ceremony by midshipmen.

As the ice melted, Rear Adm. James W. Kelly, chief of naval chaplains, prayed, "Lord, we are grateful for all You have given us as we watch the melting of snow that fell the year our Lord was born. We know that was a joyful year."

Drilling at Byrd Station began in 1966 and ended last January when Navy scientists hit beddock at 7,100 feet below the station.

Rear Adm. James L. Abbot, chief of the Navy task force which supports national science foundation project, explained how the ice was extracted.

The ice was pulled out in a 15-foot section which later was cut into three sections. Abbot said scientists dated the ice by counting layers formed during summer thaws and by radiation measuring methods.

Scientists found that one layer was formed the year Jesus was born, according to Dr. T. O. Jones, an Antarctic scientist.

The ice was shipped to Baltimore aboard the U.S. Coast Guard icebreaker West Wind.

The greatest distance between any two points in the United States is the 5,850 miles from Elliott Key, Fla., to Hawaii's Kure Island.

Marin City Shopping Relocation Debated

The Marin City County Redevelopment Agency should remodel Marin City's existing commercial area rather than construct a new commercial district, merchant Daniel Hayden has told agency and Marin City Community Service District directors.

Remodeling of the existing commercial building at Cole and Drake Avenues and construction of an adjacent 5,000-square-foot commercial building would cost no more than $80,000, Hayden said at a special meeting Tuesday night.

Directors of the two agencies held the meeting to discuss the location of future commercial development in Marin City, according to Donald Newmark, redevelopment agency administrative assistant.

Hayden, owner of a grocery and department store business in the existing commercial area, also urged directors to set aside an additional acre in the same area for future commercial development.

Commercial property should be leased to tenants on a long term agreement so that they can obtain loans and purchase equipment, Hayden said. He told directors that he has been unable to purchase expensive refrigeration equipment necessary to his grocery operation because he is on a 30-day rental agreement.

Hayden also said that it would be a disservice to residents to move the commercial center to the other side of Marin City near Highway 101, away from the population center. Many customers have no cars and children often shop for their parents, Hayden said.

The building which Hayden proposed be remodeled now contains his two stores. He suggested the new building could house the existing beauty shop, cleaners, barber shop and record store.

Two residents speaking from the audience voiced some doubts about Hayden's plan, Newmark said.

C. J. Williams, owner of the Marin City Cleaners, said he thought he might do better out on the highway where he could attract customers from Sausalito and Mill Valley.

Robert Bradley told directors he would like to establish a coffee shop-restaurant in Marin City on a site near the Highway where he, too, could attract customers from outside the community, Newmark said.

Further consideration of Hayden's proposal was postponed until after the Marin City council elections scheduled for Tuesday. Any commercial site determination would come after consultation with the new council, Newmark explained.

the tax levy by Supervisors John McInnis and William A. Gnoss and Mayor Edward Colthurst of Corte Madera.

Continuing their paring of the budget, directors compromised on a 7.5 per cent raise for Kashin, increasing his salary from $21,000 a year to $22,584 instead of the $24,996 he requested.

The salary was a compromise, with Meyer, Storer and Behr favoring 10 per cent, Kettenhofen and McInnis arguing for five per cent and Colthurst saying he would follow the lead of the majority of supervisors.

The Marin Transit District Board also:

BRIDGE — Heard a report from Robert E. Shields, Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District engineer, that remodeling the bridge toll plaza would cost under $9 million, not the originally reported $12 million. Hardcastle and district director George H. Ludy said the remodeling has not been approved by district directors.

BILL — Urged passage of Assembly Bill 855, which would give Marin two more directors on the bridge board, require bidding on all bridge contracts in excess of $5,000 and suggested an annual audit of bridge books. The board also suggested the bill be amended to set terms of office for bridge directors.

APPOINT — Approved the appointment of Kashin, Storer and Harlan Soeten of Mill Valley as representatives on a joint committee with six San Francisco representatives to study the feasibility of a ferry system.

Greenbrae Safety Meetings Slated

Meetings with Larkspur and Marin County officials have been set up to discuss areas in Greenbrae which the Greenbrae property Owners have termed unsafe for pedestrians and bicyclists, the property owners' board learned last night.

Dr. Ronald O. Plambeck, chairman of the board's committee on traffic and safety, said that he has arranged to tour the areas with Larkspur City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst and county traffic engineer James Robertson.

Greenbrae is partly in Larkspur and partly under county jurisdiction.

Dr. Plambeck requested meetings in the wake of the death of 12-year-old bicyclist, William Park Dougherty of Greenbrae, near the Bon Air shopping center on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard on June 27.

have the votes to throttle any possible filibuster and confirm the nominations once they reach the Senate floor.

Chief among the supporters is Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen, a member of the judiciary committee.

Originally, 19 Republican senators signed a position paper opposing the nominees. But the number has appeared to be dwindling, and Dirksen and Democratic leader Mike Mansfield have expressed confidence they have the votes to confirm both Fortas and Thornberry.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., leader of the GOP opposition, today said that it was important to recognize that the "advise and consent" power of the Senate with respect to the judiciary "is not only real —but it is at least as important as the power of the President to nominate."

Griffin said the Senate in general has accorded the widest latitude to the President in selection of members to his Cabinet.

Although Warren cited age (he is 77) as his reason for stepping down, it was reported he was mindful Johnson's successor might be a man of conservative cast. Thus, later retirement might open the way for an appointment that would not carry on the liberal trend of the 15-year "Warren Court."

Warren was said to have felt Richard M. Nixon might win the presidency. He and Nixon, though both are Republicans, have been on cool terms for many years.

Paperback Books Due For Children

Paperback books selected especially for 13 to 17-year-olds will be available at the Mill Valley and Sausalito libraries beginning Monday, librarians at the two facilities announced.

The new service, made available through the North Bay Cooperative Library System, is one of several projects planned under a two-year program, financed by federal funds and aimed at improving library service to suburban teen-agers.

Titles of the paperbacks range from "Gone With the Wind" to "Motorcycle Book" and cover a variety of recreational reading interests and how-to-do-it projects, Mrs. Dorothy Thomas, Mill Valley librarian, and Mrs. Kay Berteau, Sausalito librarian, reported.

Mexico Student Riot Is Deadly

PUEBLA, Mexico (AP) — Waves of college students trying to storm a house where another Puebla University faction took refuge met with a torrent of gunfire early today that killed two persons and wounded 12, police reported.

At least 40 persons were held for questioning after police took the house under the cover of machine-gun fire.

The fighting broke out after a law student, Ernesto Santillana, the brother of Puebla University's student mayor, Arturo Santillana, antagonized a group of students at a meeting.

Before the police gained control of the situation, the students opposing the Santillanas had set fire to a neighboring house with Molotov cocktails.

Anti-Reagan Try

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Leaders of a drive to remove Gov. Ronald Reagan before his term expires said today they have collected more than 700,000 signatures, and plan a 96-hour "petition-thon" next week to try to get even more.

LAWYERS

detachment, the letter stated, are the magnetic effect of the Haight-Ashbury district on dissedent soldiers and a troublesome group of lawyers to which the detachment personnel have turned for legal representation.

"These lawyers have employed techniques bordering on the unethical in order to achieve discharges for their clients . . . Soldiers have been advised to go AWOL . . . and then surrender at the Presidio so they will be processed here in the atmosphere hostile to the Army," the letter said.

A Presidio spokesman today confirmed that the Army is considering transfer of the detachment, but refused to confirm or deny that the letter was written by Colonel McMahon.

Martin, whose office is in San Francisco, said today that the assistance given the AWOL soldiers by him and the other 115 attorneys of the panel mostly involves the filing of conscientious objector claims under appropriate Army regulations.

The soldiers cannot get legal advice from the Army when they decide they are opposed to the war in Vietnam, the lawyers charged. Most civilian lawyers know very little about Army regulations, they added.

Grossman said that, through cooperation and study, members of the panel are better acquainted with military law than most civilian lawyers and are uniquely qualified to handle the cases of the young soldiers.

"This move would only deprive a large number of men in the armed forces of their legal rights to effective counsel," he said.

Members of the panel have no financial interest in the detachment's location. They all take the cases without fee, Hallinan said.

Martin said most of the soldiers come to him when they are already absent without leave from the Army.

"They are young and entirely without funds," he said. "They've just made a long distance telephone call home and been told they can expect no help from there. They've just made the biggest decision in their life — not to go along with the military establishment."

Martin said he tries to convince them to turn themselves in to the Army authorities.

"I tell them the alternatives. They can remain AWOL and there will be no resolution of their predicament. If they return to the Army, we, as counsel, can work to get them the least obnoxious type of separation from the Army," he said.

The lawyers said that, if necessary, they will seek an injunction in federal court to prohibit moving of the detachment.

"If this proposal is carried out, it will be for no other purpose and will have no other effect than denying hundreds and soon thousands of young soldiers their legal rights," they said.

Californians Use Pills Liberally

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Nearly 4 million California adults have used drugs for either pepping or tranquilizing purposes in the past year, says a board of three social scientists.

The researchers said yesterday they are trying to develop facts about patterns of drug use in an era when legislators are being urged to "curb the epidemic of drug abuse" and criticisms are being made of "America's drug-dependent society."

The study is being made by Dean I. Manheimer, Dr. Glen D. Mellinger and Dr. Mitchell B. Balter.

Laboratory Signals Confuse Astronomers

WASHINGTON (SS) — One of the greatest current problems in astronomy turns out to be caused, at least in part, not by activity in the heavens, but by a faltay tape recorder on earth.

The puzzle — the existence of pulses of light coming from the area of the heavens which is the location of Pulsar One — may not exist.

Pulsars were a big enough mystery from the beginning, when they were discovered to put out radio signals at extremely precise intervals. The puzzle was compounded when astronomers from two observatories, Lick and Kitt Peak, claimed to have also found pulses in the optical range from one of the sources.

Now the Lick observers have retracted: The optical signals they thought came from pulsar CP 1919 turn out to be spurious electronic variations introduced by the observatory's own equipment.

Meanwhile, the Kitt Peak scientists say they have confirmed their original observations of optical signals. But no one will be really convinced the light variations are real until they are confirmed by another observatory — especially since they knock into the ashcan all the theories thought up so far to explain the original radio pulses.

Some of the scientists whose theories concerning the remarkable regularity of the pulsars' radio emissions cannot be altered to take in optical variations are now even more hopeful that the identification of the object is wrong or that the reported light pulses are spurious.

Dr. David Cudaback of the University of California at Berkeley, who leads the Lick team, said he will be spending his time until mid-June trying to improve the tape recording system to eliminate the error.

After the Memorial Day weekend, mid-June will be the earliest for taking new observations of Pulsar One, since the moon will be too bright for photon counting until then.

Dr. Jerome Christian of Mt. Wilson and Palomar Observatories says there is a good possibility that the data taken with the 200-inch Hale telescope which so far has not shown any fluctuations, will be reanalyzed using the same computer on which the Lick data was reduced.

This will not happen, however, until after Dr. Cudaback and his co-workers have corrected the recorder problem.

While astronomers are trying to settle the optical question, scientists at the Naval Research Laboratory are planning this month to use the radio pulses from CP 1919 to check Einstein's theory of general relativity, which concludes that time is affected by variations in gravitational fields.

According to relativity theory, when the earth penetrates most deeply into the sun's gravitational field (in January), earthly clocks slow down, compared to their rate in June when farthest from the sun. The regular signal from the pulsar acts as an isolated clock, unaffected by changes in the gravitational field of the sun.

The measurements, expected to be taken over a 10-day period, will be repeated next January, the difference to be recorded amounting to about one part in a billion.

Since the pulsar variations can be measured with an accuracy of one part in a 100 million during a 10-day interval, the pulsar clock beyond the solar system could be used to check whether or not terrestrial atomic clocks show a frequency shift. A slowdown at perihelion of about two parts in a billion is predicted, Dr. Banesh Hoffmann of City University of New York's Queen's College.

House Guest Found Dying By Host

A Denver woman said to be despondent over the serious illnesses of both her parents was found dead early today by a San Rafael friend at whose home she was staying.

Charlene McKenzie, 35, was pronounced dead at Marin General Hospital at 5 a.m. today after her host, Jack Kabat, found her slumped on the floor of his home at 1704 Lincoln Avenue shortly after 4 a.m.

Deputy Coroner Eugene Fontaine said she may have died of an overdose of drugs, and that an autopsy would be performed.

Kabat said he saw Miss McKenzie at about midnight watching television. He left the house and did not return until 4 a.m. After trying unsuccessfully to awaken her, he called an ambulance.

He told San Rafael police that Miss McKenzie had been despondent over the illnesses of her mother, Mrs. Ernestine Kirkhuff, who is being treated for cancer in a Stockton hospital, and her father, Charles V. McKenzie, who is about to undergo surgery for a brain tumor at a Denver hospital.

She had dislocated her left knee Monday, had her leg in a cast and was having trouble sleeping, Kabat said. Her physician had prescribed Nembutal and Kabat said he filled the prescription yesterday. He estimated that she had 20 to 30 pills in her possession. Some were found in the hallway of the house.

Miss McKenzie was a native of Illinois. She had lived in Marin one year.

East Bay Bank Robber Nabbed

ALBANY (AP)—A policeman responding to a silent alarm captured a bank robbery suspect who tried to use a woman manager as a hostage, officers said.

Patrolman James Simmons said $435 already had been taken when he arrived.

The gunman shoved his pistol into the back of Mrs. Delcie Thompson, the manager, and ordered Simmons to turn around. The officer did.

When the gunman tried to grab Simmons' revolver from his holster, Simmons whirled around and wrestled the man to the floor.

The man was booked as David Caspino Jr., 30.

Humphrey Illness Cancels Coast Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, running a 101-degree temperature, canceled today a campaign trip to the West Coast.

Before canceling the trip, Humphrey issued what he called a major policy statement calling for continuing U.S. military assistance including jet planes to Israel pending a permanent Middle East settlement.

But, he contended, "the real answer lies in agreed disarmament," adding he favors active U.S. diplomatic efforts to convince Israel's Arab neighbors they should pursue a general settlement.

Newsmen, aides, and secret service agents were preparing to board Humphrey's chartered jet this morning for a flight to Los Angeles when word came from his physician, Edgar Berman, that the vice president had not shaken his bout with the flu.

The ailment earlier forced him to postpone his originally scheduled departure yesterday and miss a Citizens for Humphrey rally at Los Angeles.

Humphrey's schedule would have put him in San Francisco tonight, Seattle tomorrow night, Minneapolis Saturday and Minot, S.D., Sunday.

NIXON

Richard M. Nixon plans a Republican presidential campaign built around the nation's major industrial states and big cities, and is urging GOP workers to seek votes in the Democratic bastions in those areas.

He carried that message yesterday to Cleveland and Chicago, and plans to take it next Tuesday to Philadelphia. Nixon is due to visit Baltimore one day later and said he will go to California about July 20.

Nixon said any man who hopes to be president must go to the Negro slums of the cities because he must be able to "bridge the gap between black and white."

Nixon lost his White House race eight years ago to the late John F. Kennedy after a campaign in which he went to every state in the nation. This time, he indicated, there will be no 50-state pledge but instead a campaign concentrating on vote-rich states such as New York, California, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan and Texas.

Nixon said his city campaign already has begun.

Before a crowd that spread across Public Square in Cleveland, Nixon spoke sympathetically of the plight of the Negro slum dweller.

He said people who have no stake in society and therefore nothing to lose have turned to violence. At the same time, Nixon said, the first civil right of every American is the right to be secure from domestic violence.

WALLACE

Third party presidential candidate Wallace and his entourage are in a battle with the calendar as they try to gather enough petition signitures to put Wallace's name on the November presidential ballot in Massachusetts.

Wallace needs 61,000 signatures by July 29th to comply with what he calls the state's "very difficult" law, and the former Alabama governor says he'll need as many as 75,000 signatures "in case some folks forget to cross their T's or dot their I's."

He said yesterday he has obtained about 5,000 signatures a day during his visit to the state that began Sunday but would not say how close he is to the needed number.

"We must spread out the population," Wallace said of urban problems. He urged that industry move out of the cities into rural areas in the future leaving the cities free to pursue "normal, rather than abnormal growth."

"One of the reasons we have these urban problems," he said, "is that politicians for so long have been saying how good it was in New York and how bad it was in Alabama, and how good it was in Boston and how bad it was in Mississippi."

ROCKEFELLER

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller focused his Republican presidential campaign effort on his home state today after a Southern excursion during which he claimed to find a serious flaw in Nixon's White House strategy.

Rockefeller aides arranged a noontime rally in the city's Wall Street financial district, assuring him of a large audience for his argument that he is the strongest candidate the Republican party could nominate.

Mayor John V. Lindsay agreed to introduce the governor at the rally, and Rockefeller planned to depart afterward for Watertown, N.Y., to participate in ceremonies rededicating a St. Lawrence River bridge linking the United States and Canada.

Rockefeller flew back to New York yesterday after winding up a three-day campaign swing that took him from California to Nashville, Tenn., and Louisville, Ky.

He capped his Kentucky visit with an Ohio River cruise aboard a 54-year-old steamboat and with the argument that Nixon's presidential prospects were seriously jeopardized by relying heavily on support in the South.

Rockefeller told newsmen that former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace was making "real inroads" in the South with his third-party presidential candidacy.

Any other candidate who bases his electoral strength in the South, Rockefeller said, is in serious jeopardy. If he hopes to win, Rockefeller continued, "he's got to have his base in the North and West — in the big cities."

CONVENTION

An Illinois Bell Telephone Co. spokesman says that despite an offer by striking electrical workers to make concessions on wage demands, "they haven't budged from their original offer."

The strike by 11,800 members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, now in its 65th day, has delayed installation of communications equipment for the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

Reports have persisted that the convention might be held elsewhere if the strike is not settled. Democratic officials have denied this.

Novato Backs Ex-Official For Span Job

The Novato City Council last night endorsed a former councilman, William Jack Adams for appointment to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

Last month, Thomas D. Hardcastle of Novato announced that he will resign from the bridge board and said he would recommend Adams as his successor.

Adams, a 38-year-old executive with a San Francisco insurance firm, did not seek re-election to the Novato council this past spring. He also served as a director of the Marin Transit District while a councilman.

Councilmen also agreed to ask other cities in Marin to join them in endorsing Adams for the bridge board. The council's endorsement will be sent to Marin County supervisors, who make the appointment.

Mayor Harley McAskill called for the endorsement of Adams after noting that Arnold E. Heise, president of the North Marin County Water District, had withdrawn from consideration.

Marin's other representative on the bridge board is former county supervisor George H. Ludy of Inverness.

Fire Insurance Poll Bill Gains

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislation has cleared the Senate to assure Southern Californians they won't be denied homeowners insurance just because they live in areas prone to brush fires.

The measure, which returns to the Assembly for approval of Senate amendments, would set up an insurance company pool to guarantee such insurance at a reasonable cost.

Supporters of the bill claimed that insurance policies of about 2,300 southland residents were canceled after massive brush fires.

The birthstone for the month of April is the diamond.

$1.2 Million Proposed Novato Budget Gets Few Minor Changes

The Novato City Council made several minor revisions in the city's proposed $1.2 million budget for fiscal 1969 during a brisk, brief session last night.

Mayor Harley McAskill noted at the outset that the budget sections to be reviewed were "so tight and differed so little from a year ago" that he didn't anticipate much debate.

At the request of James Adair of the Novato Chamber of Commerce, the council postponed discussion of the membership and community promotion section.

This, said Councilman Douglas M. Merrill, eliminated the one section that might have brought forth discussion.

The biggest change was made in the non-departmental budget, which was cut by $2,060 to $137,540. City Mgr. J. Julien Baget first cut $1,500 from the overtime pay category, and then the council cut $560 proposed for hiring an administrative intern from Sonoma State College.

Baget proposed that an intern, working about eight hours a week, could undertake studies that would aid the city, such as researching the relationship between the council and commissions.

"I don't go for an intern ... having some kid come down to talk to us," said Councilman M. E. Silva.

Baget contended that cities don't utilize the resources of universities enough. "More and more universities have urban specialists to help cities," he said.

Mayor McAskill said that if anyone undertakes any studies for the city, he should be a professional, not a student.

Included in the non-departmental budget is $4,805 for a pool clerk who could serve all departments and eliminate the call for half-time typists, Baget reported.

The election budget was increased from $1,500 to $2,250, to provide $750 for a bond counsel since the city intends to place a bond issue for streets on the Nov. 3 general election ballot. (The size of the bond proposal hasn't been determined.

Approved without change were the city council budget, $9,250, the same as last year; the city manager-city clerk budget, $39,385 up $5,175; the finance-treasurer budget, $44,750, up $5,605; and the planning budget, $52,125, up $4,800.

In these sections the increases were mainly in salaries and overtime pay.

Councilmen also approved a city attorney budget of $12,050, up $4,000. Baget explained that the budget was higher because there are three cases pending which may result in litigation.

When the council was discussing the non-departmental budget, which included $2,000 for landscaping the city hall area, George Amaroli of 11 Rebecca Way, urged that the city solicit Novato residents for the landscaping work.

He said he is "utterly unhappy" when the city goes out of town to seek consultants that are available in Novato. "This money should be kept at home," Amaroli said.

Councilman J. Wayne Womack said the council has sought local bidders and awarded jobs that can be done by local firms.

After last night's action, the budget was at $1,214,760, making it $1,160 lower than the original preliminary budget, and $1,310 lower than it was at the start of the evening.

The budget last fiscal year was $1,108,860 and required a 70-cent tax rate, 5 cents less than expected in the new fiscal year.

Baget distributed a sheet listing the cost of Western Weekend to the city this year at $3,996.

Councilman Merrill questioned listing $1,000 for exemption of license fees as a cost. Without Western Weekend, there wouldn't be a fee, he pointed out.

Other costs were listed at $961 for public works labor, equipment and materials, $990 for police overtime and food for other department personnel; $44 for rental of barricades, and $1,000 for the city's donation to the event.

The council adjourned until 8 p.m. Monday at city hall to discuss the public works department budget.

New Display At Civic Center— The Assessments

Eighteen highly controversial books now are on display at Civic Center -- the assessment rolls of all property in Marin County.

The one-inch-thick books may be inspected by the public from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

Four two-inch volumes, listing property owners in alphabetical order, also are on display to provide a key to the rolls, which are arranged by parcel number.

The rolls, available for public inspection throughout the year, will be on display outside the board of supervisors chamber on the third floor through Aug. 26, the deadline to file appeals with the assessment appeals board.

The assessed valuation of 40 per cent of the properties in Marin increased this year to a total of $526,350,000, up from last year's $500,066,696.

The average Massachusetts family had about $16,700 life insurance during 1966.

DOG GETS SHOT FOR PEOPLE

Charlie takes his anti-rabies shot stoically from Dr. George E. McDaniel (left) of North Marin Veterinary Center, Novato, and Donald W. Willmore of Madera Pet Hospital, Corte Madera. The English bulldog, owned by Kirk W. Frederick of San Rafael was among a record 580 dogs who turned out for the first in a series of 12 rabies vaccination clinics being sponsored in Marin by the county health department in July and August. The next clinic will be from 6 to 8 p.m. today at Marion Street School in Novato. (Marin County Health Department photo)

$1 Million Tennis, Swim Center Project Envisioned

A $1 million swimming pool and tennis court project was proposed yesterday for Civic Center.

The proposal was made before the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission by Carney J. Campion of San Rafael, president of the Marin Swim Club.

Campion envisioned a 50-meter, nine-lane swiming pool, diving pool, dressing rooms and eight to 12 tournament tennis courts. It would be similar to the international swim center in the City of Santa Clara, he said.

Both the pool and the courts could attract international meets, thus building the tourist business in Marin, said Carney, also general manager of the Redwood Empire Association.

"There are many hurdles to go over," he conceded, "but it's time to make a start."

Melton Ferris commission chairman, said "you have a sympathetic audience, but the major problem would be financing it."

Revenue from the pool and courts could offset cost, said Ferris, but Marin Parks and Recreation Dir. Pierre W. Joske added that such revenues "usually barely pay for salaries."

Campion said the proposal had the support of his club's board of directors and of some 500 members of the six swim clubs in Marin.

Commissioners asked Joske to study the feasibility and cost of such an undertaking. Joske noted the study may take "quite some time" beacuse his department is busy with many other propects.

Commissioners Lothar Salin and Aline McClain were absent.

Marin Parks, Recreation Commission Also:

BICYCLES — Asked Joske to coordinate development among cities of connecting bicycle paths. Mrs. Raymond Gergus of Sausalito wrote commissioners that cycling to Mill Valley was like being "a kamikaze pilot."

BAY PLAN — Heard Joske report he will have his detailed analysis of the master plan for the bay proposed by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission ready by July 24.

REEF — Agreed that Duxbury Reef off Bolinas should be recommended for preservation by the state as an underwater marine reserve.

PETALUMA — Heard park planner Brian G. Wittenkeller report that staff officials from cities and counties on the Petaluma River have formed an informal "Petaluma River Flood Control-Planning Committee."

LAWSON — Adjourned in memory of Commissioner Gibbs Lawson, who died of a heart attack Saturday.

Firebomb Pair Still Unfound

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Police detectives continued the search today for two young Negroes blocked by Secret Service agents in an apparent effort to throw firebombs at Gov. Ronald Reagan's home.

Officers said they had no definite leads but were attempting to locate the late-model yellow sedan in which one youth fled. The other youth escaped on foot.

Police said the only description they had on the two men was that each was about six feet tall, 180 pounds and had "athletic builds" and goatee beards.

Pleads Innocent To Gun Possession

Innocent pleas to a joint charge of burglary have been entered in Marin Municipal Court by Raymond McFarland, 25, and John William Polman, 22.

Preliminary hearing was scheduled for setting at 2 p.m. Wednesday. McFarland, of San Anselmo, and Polman, of San Rafael, are accused of burgling the Doug Dicker automobile agency at 195 Casa Buena Drive, Corte Madera, on June 14.

Novato Builders Hit By Thieves

Two thefts from the new construction on San Luis Way in Novato, were reported yesterday to police.

A carpet stretcher valued at $175 belonging to Conklin Brothers carpets of Santa Rosa was taken between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. yesterday from 755 San Luis Way, foreman Daniel C. Blackburn reported.

Four mirrors vaued at $150 were taken between Sunday and yesterday from 373 San Luis Way, Robert C. Fleming of Young America Homes Inc. of Santa Rosa told police.

Switchboard Of Marin Seeks Help

Switchboard of Marin is looking for volunteers to aid in its aim of spreading the word on what is happening in Marin County, it reported today.

The agency said it is seeking switchboard operators to answer telephones; professionals in the fields of law, pyschiatry, medicine and religion, and persons to serve on committees which will raise funds, spread publicity and gather information.

Staffed by volunteers, the telephone swithchboard provides referrals or information about public service agencies, emergency medical and psychiatric care, legal aid, employment, housing, contact with runaways and news about such events as dances, outings, shows, rummage sales, and political meetings.

A summer activity program, including arts and crafts, films, cooking classes, dances, games, professional aid, and work on the switchboard, is currently being planned.

The program will operate Wednesdays through Sundays at the Unitarian Center, 240 Channing Way, Terra Linda. Starting dates and hours have not been set.

Needed for the summer program, the agency indicated, are volunteers, cash donations, and equipment for games, weaving, work with clay, sculpture, and painting.

A dance to benefit the summer program will be held 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. July 19 at the Fairfax Pavilion, featuring several rock groups.

Hospital Parking Tax On Agenda

Marin Hospital District directors are scheduled to meet at 8 a.m. tomorrow in the board room at Marin General Hospital to adopt a tax on property owners to finance parking lot construction and landscaping at the Community Mental Health Center.

Directors have estimated a one-year tax of 8 cents per $100 of assessed valuation would be required to raise the $344,000 for the two projects.

FOR COUNTY POSTS

Greater Teen Voice Gets A Chilly Reply

A recent plea by a group of high school students that Marin Youths be appointed to county commissions got a decidedly chilly reception yesterday from parks and recreation commissioners.

"They want the right of decision, not of expression," asserted Commissioner Howard Council.

"There are all kinds of lines of communication open to them that they haven't used, and should before they have a vote," he said. The 60 empty seats at the Civic Center hearing room could have been filled by youths if they had been interested, he added.

"I'm against appointing someone just because he's young," declared Council. "This commission is not for special interestes," he said.

"Being young isn't having a special interest," replied chairman Melton Ferris.

He and Commissioner Elizabeth B. Davies said they liked the proposal, but would limit it to persons 18 or older.

"If you're old enough to get shot, you're old enough to deliberate on this commission," said Ferris.

"You can't be too young to participate," said Mrs. Davies, adding, "I assume, of course, they would only be observers."

The fourth commissioner present, Herbert Leney, said the commission's purpose was "to formulate mature judgments." Youths could sit in on the commission's meetings, he suggested, if they don't vote.

The only full support given the proposal was by Brian G. Wittenkeller, park planner. "We need contact with youth," he said.

The county counsel's office has said that persons under 21 years of age can serve on certain advisory bodies, of which the parks and recreation commission is one.

Ferris set the matter for further discussion by the commission at 2 p.m. Aug. 14 at Civic Center.

Commissioners will have to consider whether the appointments would be in addition to the seven regular commissioners, how many would be appointed, whether they would be selected at large and how the board of supervisors would select appointees.

Anti-Reagan Drive On Two Days Only

Petition circulators for the Recall Ronald Reagan drive in Marin will be stationed at each bus station in the county on Saturday and Sunday but not tomorrow, Chairman J. Arthur Weinberg of Mill Valley announced.

An announcement published yesterday said the circulators would be at the bus stations on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The circulators will be out on Saturday and Sunday only.

Pentagon Tells Senators Nuclear Treaty Desirable

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department endorsed the nuclear nonproliferation treaty today as "an important step forward toward new forms of security" and said it gives cautious encouragement to prospects for further U.S.-Soviet disarmament deals.

Deputy Defense Secretary Paul Nitze and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, set forth the Pentagon position as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee opened its second day of hearings.

President Johnson is pressing for quick Senate approval of the treaty. Secretary of State Dean Rusk testified yesterday ratification is necessary if there are to be "reasonable prospects for dealing with the perils" of the spread of nuclear weapons.

Nitze said the Pentagon is satisfied that the treaty will not damage its ability to meet mutual defense obligations. He said the treaty is "fully compatible with our security requirements."

Nitze said, "The Department of Defense is under no illusion that we need no longer worry about the proliferation of nuclear weapons."

HERBERT MARCUSE
A klan deadline?

Threatened Philosopher Flees Home

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A death threat giving Dr. Herbert Marcuse "72 hours to leave the United States" caused the so-called "philosopher of the new left" to flee his home only hours before the deadline.

FBI agents and postal authorities today attempted to trace the letter, hand-printed in ink, which was signed, "Ku Klux Klan."

Marcuse, 70, is professor of philosophy at the University of California at San Diego and an avowed Marxist. Widely known in Europe, his critics charged his radical views gave impetus to recent international student demonstrations.

The letter, dated July 1, said: "Marcuse, you are a very dirty Communist dog. You have 72 hours to leave the United States. 72 hours, Marcuse, and then we will kill you." Friends said Marcuse initially thought the note was a prank. But two days later he found his telephone had been disconnected. The telephone company said an anonymous caller had ordered the service discontinued.

Alarmed, Marcuse conferred with colleagues and decided to leave his home early July 4. His wife accompanied him.

The threat came during a controversy over reports published in German newspapers that Marcuse invited "Rudi the Red" Dutschke, leader of the revolt at the Free University of Berlin last spring, to enroll as a graduate student at the campus.

Marcuse said he had met Dutschke in Berlin on a lecture tour but denied the reports as erroneous. "I never invited him to come here," he said.

Pair Freed On Marijuana Count

Charges of marijuana possession were dismissed in Marin Superiour Court yesterday against co-defendants John Joseph Caggiano, 23, and Harriette Pauline Papio, 32, on grounds that their arrest was based on an illegal Santa Barbara search warrant.

The action was taken by Judge Joseph G. Wilson. Caggiano, of San Diego, and Miss Papio, of San Francisco, were accused of having marijuana in a Corte Madera hotel Jan 11.

Officers said they were informed that Caggiano was allegedly involved in a Santa Barbara ring of about 50 persons dealing in marijuana sales.

Mrs. King Pausing To Write Biography

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr. says she is taking about a month off from civil rights activities to write a book about life with her late husband.

The widow of the Negro leader said yesterday she would try "to capture, in writing, the years of struggle which characterized the life that Martin Luther King and I shared."

CENTER NEARS COMPLETION

The $1.6 million Community Mental Health Center is 80 per cent completed, as shown in this photo taken yesterday. The center, at Marin General Hospital in Greenbrae, is scheduled to open in September. Construction by Christensen and Foster of Santa Rosa began in May, 1967. Federal and state funds are providing two-thirds of the center's cost. (Independent-Journal photo)

Fire Threatens Three Houses

Three Homestead Valley homes were threatened by a brush and grass fire at the end of Ridgewood Avenue yesterday afternoon.

Tamalpais Fire Chief Richard K. Oswald said the fire, which was reported at 4:30 p.m., was probably started by three teenagers seen in the area earlier.

Before the blaze was under control at 4:50 p.m., it had burned two bay trees and had threatened a stand of Eucalyptus trees as well as the three homes, Oswald said. Between three and four acres were burned, he said.

The fire department's four-wheel-drive squad truck lost its front drive shaft while climbing the rough terrain on the way to the fire, the chief said. The Marin County Fire Department was asked to send one truck to replace the disabled truck, but by the time the county's truck arrived the fire was under control, Oswald said.

Police Gun Use Satisfies Alioto

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Police Department will place no restrictions on the use of guns by officers says Mayor Joseph L. Alioto.

He made the statement yesterday after Oakland Police Chief Charles R. Gain announced he had ordered his men not to discharge firearms to capture or prevent the escape of suspected burglars, car thieves or drivers suspected of felony violations.

"I'm satisfied that our police are acting wisely, constitutionally—and also effectively — in the use of weapons," Alioto said.

Joshua Stoddard, who invented the calliope, envisioned it as a replacement for church bells. However, it found its true home in the circus. P. T. Barnum bought one of the first and spent $10,000, he said, to mount it on a gaudy red and gold wagon pulled by eight matched percherons.

Mrs. Maureen Sinclair is president of Insurance Women of Marin.

Credit Card User Is Sought For Assault

Novato police today broadcast the name and description of a young man they suspect was the assailant who raped, robbed and kidnaped a 28-year-old Novato housewife Tuesday.

Police Sgt. William M. Cann said the suspect is 22-year-old Jerry Stanley Borst, a black-haired, brown-eyed youth who stands five feet 10 inches tall and weighs 155 pounds. Police had no information as to Borst's background or home town.

Borst allegedly used one of the credit cards stolen from the housewife in a Novato Service station after the crimes, Sergeant Cann said.

Cann also said there are witnesses who saw him in the Novato shopping center where the housewife was abducted, just before the abduction.

Borst is driving a white 1959 Chevrolet station wagon with license number EDD 937, Sergeant Cann said.

Inspector Marco Melovich of the sheriff's office said an unidentified motorist reported he saw a hitchhiker similar in appearance to a composite drawing of the attacker on Highway 12 in Sonoma County yesterday evening. Responding sheriff's cars failed to locate that person, however.

Melovich also said the drawing has been distributed to all police departments in Marin, and that a check with the state Criminal Identification and Investigation Bureau is being made to compare the attack with the mode of operation of known criminals.

The housewife, kidnaped at knifepoint at Novato Fair Shopping Center, was forced to drive to a lonely road near Marinwood. There she was raped and robbed, then forced to drive to another site where she and two young sons accompanying her—were abandoned.

Her car was stolen by the assailant, but was later found in Novato. She described him as about 25 years old, having black hair and wearing dark-rimmed glasses, and wearing a dark, dirty shirt.

A statewide alert has been issued for his apprehension.

Sheriff's Income Hardly Beans Money

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Attorney Fre. M. Joseph accepted appointment as St. Louis County sheriff as a civic duty after the death of Sheriff Frank L. Malone.

Rookie Dies In Off-Duty Police Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — Nicolo Danisi, a rookie patrolman only 10 days on the force, has died of a bullet wound incurred in a bizarre gunbattle among three off-duty patrolmen.

Danisi died yesterday afternoon about 17 hours after he was shot in the head by another patrolman during an argument over a stalled car on the Cross-Bronx Expressway.

Patrolman John T. Dalton, 41, was charged with homicide. Dalton was shot in the chest by a detective who witnessed the first shooting. He was in good condition in Jacobi Hospital.

The third man in the incident, Detective Frederick Gibson, 36, was unhurt and was not charged by police. He is a member of the Bureau of Special Services.

The shooting came when Danisi, whose car was in the jam behind Dalton, came up to investigate. Gibson said Danisi was carrying his police shield, but Dalton drew his revolver and shot him under the right eye.

Gibson then identified himself as a policeman, and told Dalton to drop his gun. When he did not, Gibson fired five shots, one of which struck Dalton in the chest.

Police investigators, headed by Chief Inspector Sanford D. Garelik, said the three men did not know each other.

Sheriff's Unit Saves Teen-Age Fishermen

A teen-age fishing trip almost turned to disaster last night when the motor on a fishing boat failed and the two youths were set adrift in San Pablo Bay off Hamilton Air Force Base.

Peter Mayer, 18, of 519 Tamarack Drive, Terra Linda, and Tim DeVoy, of 38 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia, had set out around noon from Buck's Launching, 665 North San Pedro Road.

Hours later, at 6:45 p.m., Capt. William Muggenthaler, chief of the Sheriff's Marine Patrol and part of a work crew at the patrol's alert shack at Buck's Launching, received word that a boat was adrift in the bay.

Captain Muggenthaler, who owns Loch Lomond Yacht Sales, and fellow Marine Patrolmen Frank Miller and Al Bottleson took a new 23-foot cruiser out to look for the youths at 7:15, Muzio said.

At 7:45 p.m., the rescue squad located Mayer and DeVoy above Hamilton Air Force Base, adrift in an 8-foot dinghy without anchor or paddle.

Five minutes later, a Hamilton rescue boat arrived, also in search of the pair.

Muzio said the alarm was given by Peter's father, James A. Mayer.

Getaway Auto Found Stolen

A car, apparently abandoned by three prowlers who attempted to break into a Corte Madera home Monday night, had been stolen, police said today.

The car owned by C. Franklin Whitehead of 77 Cornelia Avenue, Mill Valley, had been taken while he was out of town, according to police.

The prowlers, who are still being sought, broke a window at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kluge of 680 Chapman Drive and fled when they heard Mrs. Kluge calling police.

The car was later found abandoned on Alto Terrace, where it had run into a fence.

Booked into Marin County Jail on susupicion of furnishing marijuana, furnishing drugs, and being in a place where narcotics were being used was Bradford Eugene Bishop, no known address. With bail set at $1,565, he was scheduled to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

The boys, aged 16 and 17, were cited to Juvenile Hall for the use of drugs.

Port was among nine Northern California soldiers cited for heroism today.

Tiburon Deputy Arrests Teeners Outside Dance

While a teen-age dance was going on inside the Tiburon Peninsula Club last night, three 16-year-old boys were arrested on suspicion of possession of marijuana in the club parking lot.

In the automobile, where one of the youths was sitting at 9:20 p.m., Deputy Sheriff John Goff found a water pipe and seeds he took for marijuana on the seats and floorboards of the vehicle. The two other boys were standing near the car.

One youth had in his pockets three homemade cigarettes, one silver spoon, one corncob pipe, 87 yellow pills of unknown composition, and a leather case containing a sticky black substance. A small American flag in which a needle and syringe were wrapped was found in the possession of one youth.

The three suspects were booked at Juvenile Hall.

Child Pulled From Pool, Revived

Tragedy was averted yesterday afternoon when a 3-year-old Corte Madera boy was rescued from the Jewish Community Center swimming pool in Santa Venetia and revived.

Center director Bernard Rosner administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to Neil Simonsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Simonsen, 34 Morningstar Course, Corte Madera, until Marin County firemen arrived with a resuscitator.

Rosner said he worked on the child for about two minutes. He didn't know who pulled the child out.

Fire Warden Alden F. Fleming used the resuscitator on the child and he revived, the fire department reported. The department received the call at 3:49 p.m.

Neil was taken first to Marin General Hospital, then released to his father.

Simonsen said Neil is fine this morning and already wants to go swimming again.

Innocent Plea In Gun Theft

Harry Schott, 28, pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a felony charge of possession of a stolen gun. Preliminary hearing was scheduled for 2 p.m. July 24.

Schott, of San Rafael, is accused of having a .45-caliber automatic pistol, stolen from a Southern California home, in his possession July 3.

Harbor Planner Raps Attacks On Bolinas

By ALAN JONES

Current county moves to dissolve the Bolinas Harbor District come at a particularly inopportune time, the district's planner said today.

Planner and architect Norman T. Gilroy said multiple scientific studies now under way in Bolinas lagoon overrride local arguments over jurisdiction, and said that without the harbor district the studies would end.

In the discussion this morning on radio station KTIM's Sounding Board program, a Bolinas conservation representative countered with advantages that would accrue if Marin County took jurisdiction over the lagoon as the board of supervisors has proposed.

The county, David J. Tirrell said, has a broader viewpoint, more leverage with state government, and the ability to coordinate overall planning of the Bolinas area to "keep the area as it should be kept."

Tirrell spoke as chairman of the Bolinas unit of the Marin Conservation League. But as a taxpayer, he said, he felt taxes levied by the harbor district could better be spent to solve problems of sewer systems and schools in the area.

"Confidence has been lost" in the harbor district and it should be dissolved, said Harold E. Gregg, president of the Marin Conservation League.

He said the district had misrepresented facts in its proposed emergency dredging of Bolinas Channel, saying only 20,000 cubic yards were to be dredged while the application calls for 60,000 yards.

Gilroy and harbor board member Thomas R. Tawns said lack of communication between district and county was largeley responsible for the move to dissolve the district.

Tawns said the Bolinas area's supervisor (Thomas T. Storer) had shown little interest in harbor board meetings. Gilroy said conservation groups which have been major critics of the district have not attended board meetings to learn what is actually going on.

The board of supervisors initiated a move last month to dissolve the district and have the county take over zoning and planning of the area. If the Local Agency Formation Commission approves, an election will be held in the district on dissolution.

The move followed continuing disagreement over development plans for the lagoon, and was precipitated by the district's application to dredge Bolinas channel.

Answering questions from the radio audience, the panel veered from the question of dissolution to current controversy over the dredging, the harbor development plan presented in 1966 and other matters.

Gilroy said he had taken pains to keep the county staff informed about the proposed channel dredging project, "but it continues to be said" that the supervisors were not informed.

Tirrell said the district board's basic job is to develop a harbor. If the county took over the area, he said, it removes the pressure for a harbor and would allow the voters to decide whether they want a large harbor development.

The harbor district "seems a duplication of effort," Gregg said, because the county has planning, parks and recreation staffs who could plan development of the area.

Gilroy defended the district, saying benefits of development should be borne on a basis of benefit to those in the area. But a combination of federal, state and local agencies should share costs, he said.

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Kennedy Aide Urges State Gun Controls

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The man who announced to the world the death of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of a gunshot wound called on the legislature today to approve a tough state gun control law.

Frank Mankiewicz, the assassinated senator's press secretary, was the last of 34 witnesses testifying at a six-hour-long assembly committee hearing on a bill sponsored by Assemblyman Winfield A. Shoemaker, D-Lompoc.

It features proposed licensing of all the state's estimated 8 million gun owners, but not registration. Opponents charged that either owner licensing or gun registration would lead to eventual confiscation.

At the end, the weary Assembly Criminal Procedure Committee took Shoemaker's bill under submission for technical amendments and possible behind-the-scene compromises to meet some of the critics' arguments.

Mankiewicz appeared in the jammed committee room after midnight following a flight from Los Angeles. Representing the Emergency Committee for Gun Control, he made one direct reference during his five minutes on the stand to the Kennedy assassination in Los Angeles June 5.

"Gun-control legislation has been under consideration for a good many years. It's not a question of turning now in the wake of tragedy to see what can be done. Rather, it is to see in the wake of tragedy why we have waited so long."

Opposition came from 21 witnesses, including representatives of sportsmen's groups, gun store owners, conservationists and ordinary citizens.

More than 300 persons crowded the hearing room. Nearly as many jammed a neighboring room, where they heard the testimony over a loudspeaker.

Marijuana Revision Bill Seemingly Dead

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The latest major attempt at revising state narcotics laws dealing with marijuana and dangerous drugs such as LSD has died for the year in a Senate committee.

The measure rejected yesterday afternoon in the upper house Judiciary Committee would have allowed a judge — on the merits of each case — to decide whether a conviction for possession of marijuana or dangerous drugs should be a misdemeanor or a more severe penalty, a felony.

The bill, by Assemblyman W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, dealt only with first offense cases of possession of the mind-bending drugs, not for other offenses such as cultivation or sale.

Under present law, a marijuana conviction is automatically a felony, bringing a possible state prison term. In contrast, the same offense involving LSD — considered by most medical authorities as much more dangerous — is only a misdemeanor wtih a county jail term.

Biddle said his bill was "a method of making uniform and fair our laws on drugs."

It would do away with situations in which a judge is bound to give a felony sentence, for example, to someone found with one marijuana cigarette and only a misdemeanor penalty to another with a large quantity of LSD.

Seven yes votes were needed to move the Assembly-approved bill out of the 13-member committee, where it had ben stalled since April 24, and to the full Senate. But although 11 senators were present, only five voted for the bill.

Although the measure was "held in committee" with a technical, but slim chance for future approval, Biddle said he considered it "dead this year."

Among the absent committee members was Sen. Lewis F. Sherman, R-Berkeley, who planned on voting for the bill, Biddle said.

And Biddle also said he thought he had an affirmative vote in Democratic Sen. George Danielson of Los Angeles, who had asked that a major hearing on the bill be delayed while he fought a tough primary election campaign. But Danielson did not vote at all.

Biddle said earlier talks with committee opponents to his bill disclosed that they were wary that an affirmative vote would seem to some constituents like a vote for marijuana.

"The press and others have played this up as lessening the penalities for marijuana. This isn't the purpose of the bill. It would leave this up to the judge," he said.

He added that the measure had the backing of the District Attorney's Association of California, representing those that prosecute drug cases, and the California Peace Officers Association.

Senators Reject Reagan Try To Trim Welfare

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Senate has rejected a major part of Gov. Ronald Reagan's welfare cost cutting efforts — a bill to lower maximum grants to families with parents who are unemployed.

The measure by Sen. H.L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, was rejected 20-18 yesterday, one vote short of the 21-vote majority needed in the 40-member house.

Present law sets a $375 monthly limit on such Aid to Families with Dependent Children, plus an additional $5 per child after the ninth child.

The Richardson bill would have lowered the ceiling to $275 and provided for supplemental grants if it is shown the children would be "deprived of the basic necessities of life" without them.

John Adams and John Quincy Adams were the only father and son to become presidents.

Political Donations Deduction Broadened

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has signed into law a bill that grants Californians an income tax deduction of up to $100 for political contributions each year, instead of just in election years.

The measure signed Wednesday, was sponsored by Assemblyman George W. Milias, R-Gilroy.

The Boston Public Library had 2,306,711 volumes at the end of 1965.

San Rafael Grad Wins Long Stay At Famed Cambridge University

By JIM BREWER

A 22-year-old June graduate of Harvard University from San Rafael has become the first Californian to receive the two-year Lionel de Jersey Harvard fellowship to Cambridge University in England — but he's not too impressed.

John A. McKinnon, who has won a basketful of honors since his San Rafael High School days, yesterday said he applied for the fellowship "to get the hell out of the country for a while."

The tall, soft-spoken former high school basketball center, also applied for a grant to travel to the island of Bora Bora to lie on the beach and write poetry — he didn't get it.*

So instead he will travel to Britain this fall to study economics and occupy the same room that John Harvard, founder of that univrsity, lived in when he attended Cambridge in the 17th Century.

JOHN A. McKINNON
To view U.S. from afar

McKinnon, son of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. McKinnon of 72 Lochinvar Road, said the fellowship was established in 1919 as a memorial to the first descendant of Harvard to attend the Massachusetts university. He explained that he was selected from among several applicants on the basis of an essay and a personal interview. But he added that academics were stressed.

"I planned to go to England anyway," he said. "I'd like to get some distance on what it means to be an American. I feel there is much wrong with this country," he continued, adding, "There's something about the way Europeans approach life."

Reflecting what it has meant to him to be an honor student, McKinnon said, "I'm not certain I'm proud of the way things happened. All the time I was in high school it never occurred to me that things might be better another way — society's idea of success was already laid out."

He continued, "A lot of those successful students probably never stopped to question. A real personality comes from questioning. If I had it to do again, knowing what I know now, I might not have so many honors," he said.

McKinnon said he started questioning things in his sophomore year at Harvard. "I sorta hit a sophomore slump," he joked.

"I started doing things like drinking, riding motorcycles and jumping out of airplanes," he said. But he added that it didn't change his academic standing much. "I guess I was just in the study habit," he explained.

"The fellowship has little to do with the kind of person I am —I applied to go to England, not for honor."

While majoring in English literature at Harvard, McKinnon was a Phi Betta Kappa. He was named San Rafael High School's most outstanding senior upon graduation in 1964.

Novato Gearing To Welcome 28 Youngsters From La Paz

Mexican clothes and souvenirs will be in evidence and Novato children will be speaking Spanish.

Mexican children will be trying out their English on their newly adopted Novato families.

All this will happen Friday when the 20 Novato children return from La Paz, Baja California, where they have been for three weeks, and 28 children and two teachers from La Paz come to spend six weeks in the United States.

The Novato youngsters are scheduled to arrive at San Francisco International Airport at 4:10 p.m. Then at 7:25 p.m. the plane bearing the Mexican children will arrive at the airport, according to Mrs. E. T. Ghirardo, chairman of the Novato-LaPaz project this year.

On hand to greet the children will be Mexican Vice Consul Belarmino Castellanas.

This year was the first time that Novato children have gone to La Paz. However, this will be the third summer that La Paz children have visited in Novato.

Parents of the Novato children paid their way to La Paz, which is $65 for those under 12 and $130 for those over 12, Mrs. Ghirardo said.

The Novato committee has undertaken to pay half the fare of the Mexican children, or $1,755, she said. The committee raised $1,400, and the Novato Junior Chamber of Commerce loaned the committee the balance, she said.

To raise the funds to pay the Jaycees back, the committee has planned a candy sale for July 19, conducted by both the Novato and La Paz children, she said.

The other half of the fare of the Mexican youngsters is being paid by the John F. Kennedy Bi-Lingual Library School in La Paz, Mrs. Ghirardo said. Prof. Carlos C. Carmona, head of the school, has been fostering the student exchange.

Professor Carmona and a teacher, Francisco Beltran, will accompany the children. Beltran will stay in Novato with 26 of them. Two children have made arrangements to go to Monterey for the six weeks. They will all return Aug. 29, Mrs. Ghirardo said. Carmona will return to La Paz after spending a few days in the Bay Area, she added.

While in Novato, many families will take the children with them on their vacations. Some of the children will attend summer bi-lingual classes being arranged through the committee.

The 26 Novato families who will be keeping La Paz children are the Robert Andersons, A. J. Brinckerhoffs, Sam H. Bryans, William Carpenters, James E. Cermaks, E. T. Ghirardos, James Harringtons Jr., E. K. Henerlaus, W. O. Hensleys, Oliver Heslas, Frank W. Joyners, Ronald E. Lipes, Robert R. MacDonalds, Jack W. McNerneys, John A. Moores, John Morenos, William F. Nabers, James Parrs, Edward Rolls, D. P. Rouchleaus, Gordon J. Schmidts, Robert E. Sherrills, Marvin Soilands, Edward Wolfords, James S. Wrights and Raymond Youngs.

Marinites Pen A Police Article

Sausalito Police Chief Edward S. Kreins and San Rafael psychiatrist Edward E. Shev are co-authors of an article in the current issue of The Police Chief, titled "Psychiatric Techniques in the Selection and Training of a Police Officer."

Kreins and Dr. Shev explain how they conduct psychiatric interviews of prospective policemen and in-service training.

Police today need basic knowledge of human behavior, the article says, and the police department must see that the officer's emotional makeup will meet the stresses of the job.

Talks Hit Snag On Steel Pact

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Top negotiators for the United Steelworkers union report that money talks toward a new labor contract in the steel industry are at a standstill with only three weeks before the deadline.

"All we get from the companies are stories about how poverty-stricken they are," President I.W. Abel told the first big caucus of the current bargaining yesterday.

"We mean business," he said. "I think it would be foolish of the steel industry to doubt that. We closed down copper for eight and a half months."

However, Abel told representatives of the nation's 450,000 basic steelworkers that it was still too early to tell whether a strike would be necessary.

Wynn's Widow Inherits $3,000

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The last of comedian Ed Wynn's three wives will receive $3,000 of his $267,000 estate.

Wynn died of cancer June 19, 1966, at 79.

Time To Lower Barrier Over Richmond Bridge

The Richmond-San Rafael Bridge is breaking traffic records despite its 75-cent toll, according to figures released by the State Division of Bay Toll Crossings.

The span that links Marin with Contra Costa carried a new one-day high of 22,905 vehicles on June 17, which eclipsed the previous record of 21,693 posted on April 14.

This news is of more than statistical interest to Marin County residents. We recall that it has been more than two years since officials of the Division of Bay Toll Crossings mentioned the possibility of a cut in tolls.

In April of 1966, a deputy engineer of Bay Toll Crossings assured us that "things are going very well and a toll reduction looks quite promising."

He suggested two methods of reducing the 75-cent toll:

1. Starting in 1967, tolls could be cut five cents per year for five years, to bring the toll to 50 cents.

2. The division could wait for five years and then cut 25 cents in one fell swoop.

All of this, the engineer explained in April of 1966, was contingent on the continued growth of traffic on the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge.

If the news releases of record-breaking traffic on the span are any indication, we submit that the "continued growth" has been as good or better than expected, and it is time for the Bay Toll Crossings officials to seriously consider a reduction in the 75-cent barrier.

On the Golden Gate Bridge, the situation is quite different. There, the congestion is such that bridge officials have even considered raising the tolls to discourage individual cars and encourage bus riders.

But the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge is far from congested. Students or parents who have occasion to visit Berkeley hesitate when they consider the $1.50 round-trip. So do those of the general public who consider attending sporting or cultural events in the East Bay.

The time is ripe for another review of the financial picture of the Richmond span, with an eye to lowering the toll by five, 10, or 25 cents this year.

Hailed as the world's only camel-back bridge, it is not exactly a thing of great physical beauty. But it would look considerably more attractive if we could whiz over into Contra Costa at a reduced rate.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Don't Litter With Disposable Cans

Today I heard a man proudly announce that Pepsi Cola (or was it Coca Cola?) now sends their product in a "no return" container as a great convenience to the buyer.

He didn't add that now you may throw the empty container along the road (for decoration) or over the fence, no obligation to see that it does not become litter.

I hope they did well with this great improvement — enough so they might be able to pay one cent or even a fraction of a cent tax on each container — to pay for clearing the litter.

This also applies to all other producers who sell their product in "no return" containers

Gun Regulation Is 'Political Maneuver'

The gun controversy . . . I beg leave to speak on this again, partly because various good folk express shock that a publicly vocal conservationist ("save the eagles!") and peace-pusher ("get out of Vietnam!") now opposes anti-gun legislation.

I'm not against gun regulation "in principle." We may need more (primarily educational) that would better protect wildlife particularly, as well as genuinely protect human life. But I believe the current furore was whooped up for reasons opposite to the true public interest.

I don't think this is primarily an anti-crime campaign at all, but a broad, non-partisan, political maneuver by the Power Elite — to use a polite name. And I think the decisive steam behind our Washington-led, "moral" (ha!) and "anti-violence" (wheee!) crusade is the aim to:

1. Divert attention away from real and monstrous problems, abroad and at home, to simpleton, cops-and-robbers, "great debate" which is largely phony, even though most debaters don't know it.

2. Speed the step-by-step escalation to full control of citizen arms for:

(a) Prejudicial "record" keeping and effective disarmament and recognition-organization of politically "respectable" sections, as available auxiliaries for regular forces of rule. Remember the omnibus "crime control" bill signed June 19 by Johnson includes not only $400,000,000 this year for more arms and training of non-federal enforcement agencies, but also an immediate $50,000,000 for organization of vigilante units, obviously for use against political activists and in ghettos.

And yet, a lot of our woolly-brained, liberal sheep remain fooled, as usual, by "stop-thief," lamb-bleating ventriloquism for the wolf pack.

DON STEVENS
Mill Valley

Gun Laws Would Coddle Criminals

It seems to me the proposed "gun control laws" would just be an extension of the present policy of coddling criminals and Communists while hampering law-enforcement agencies and penalizing law-abiding citizens. It would be an excuse to set up still another bureaucracy.

The gun which killed Senator Kennedy was registered and was carried in violation of existing laws. Why enact laws which cannot be enforced?

It is unlikely that any of the 2700 guns which were stolen during the recent riots in Washington (while police stood by awaiting permission to act) will be registered.

Evidence Of Value In Gun Restrictions

. . . Opponents of gun control laws say that registration of guns and restrictions on sales would merely inconvenience law-abiding hunters, while failing to keep firearms from the hands of criminals. It is true that no laws would be completely effective in this regard, but there is abundant evidence that some improvements result from almost any controls.

In Massachusetts 87 per cent of the guns used in local crimes were traced to purchases in neighboring states, where no waiting period or background investigation was required. A recent study by the Chicago Police Department showed that nearly 25 per cent of 4,069 mail order guns went to people with criminal records, showing that even mail order bans should accomplish something. . . .

New Jersey in a four year period had an overall homicide rate of 3.5 per 100,000 population; New York a rate of 4.8, and Rhode Island 1.4. Contrast this to Louisiana with a murder rate for the same period of 9.9, Texas 9.1, and Nevada 10.6. It can be seen that while murder cannot be eradicated, it can be reduced by a half to two-thirds by such measures as registration of guns and licensing of owners.

. . . In England, guns are not allowed to be kept in private homes, although they are allowable at shooting and hunting clubs . . . As a result, there were 24 firearms murders in 1963, compared to 5,426 in the U. S. In the same year Australia had 61 homicides by gun, Japan 37 (with half our population), Netherlands 3. No civilized nation even approaches the rate of violent death that occurs in America the Peaceful.

It is argued that controls would accomplish nothing because criminals usually steal their weapons. However in a Massachusetts study recently, of 4,506 guns confiscated from criminals, only six had been stolen. . . .

We no longer live on the frontier where a gun was some measure of protection. 80 per cent of Americans live in cities, where guns invoke rather than prevent violence. A hundred million of the things are sitting in our closets and drawers, waiting to be triggered by the fanatics, the drunks, the angry and the frightened.

There is only one way to combat this sickening situation: Write your Congressmen!

De Gaulle Poorly Equipped To Correct Economic Anemia

WASHINGTON —President Charles de Gaulle's toughest test is still ahead of him — and he is ill-equipped to meet it.

After a month of fierce student rioting and paralyzing strikes, the French people are giving General de Gaulle the parliamentary power to redeem his tardy promises.

He has promised to carry out sweeping reforms in the educational and economic system of France — reforms which were never even talked about by the Gaullist government until it was nearly toppled by violence. There isn't the faintest evidence that de Gaulle has thought through what he proposes to do or how he proposes to do it.

The need for restructuring, reforming, and revitalizing both French education and French industry couldn't be more crucial. Each contributes to the anemia of the other.

CONSIDER THE paucity of French education. In the U. S. there are 1,400 four-year universities with the most varied courses leading to almost any chosen career. In France, with 25 per cent as many people, there are only 50 such institutions with a narrow range of studies.

There are seven million students in American universities. With one quarter the population, there are only 700,000 students in French universities.

In the U. S. universities there are 900 courses leading to degrees in business administration. In French universities there are only three or four such courses and only a few hundred business graduates a year.

KEY STATISTICS show the basic weakness of French industry.

The gross national product in the United States per person and on the basis of comparable prices is two to three times greater than in France. This comes from inefficient management, inadequate technology, and low productivity per worker.

France's human and natural resources are being grossly underutilized, and until French management is brought into the second half of the 20th century, France's industrial plight cannot be corrected.

France continues to educate classical scholars for jobs that don't exist, and French industry is employing classical students for management jobs they can't perform.

French management knows what's happening; the nation's annual growth rate is down from 7 per cent in the early '60s to 3.5 per cent today. French workers know what's happening; they are widely underpaid. French investors know what's happening; they avoid new stock issues and loans to firms under French management and turn to firms under American direction.

FOR A DECADE President de Gaulle has done next to nothing to deal with the fundamental causes of his nation's economic anemia and educational irrelevance. In the face of the riots and the strikes he said he had been planning to "revolutionize" both industry and education and had only been waiting on public support. He's got it now — with a vengeance.

As to what he will do, he has been carefully vague and when less than vague he has left many qualified people with the impression that his grasp of economic issues begins and ends with the opening chapter of an outdated high school textbook.

His stated premise is that "both communism and capitalism are evil forms of society," and if he travels that road, he is likely to end up with the worst of both.

France's problem is that it has never had a really enterprising, competitive private capitalism. It is suffering from anemic 18th-century capitalism and anemic 19th-century socialism; the French government itself spends more than half the nation's gross national product.

De Gaulle has now been given a mandate to do what is needed. For the good of the Free World we must hope he can succeed.

Many students will go job hunting via the computer in the future.

An experimental project under way at Harvard's Graduate School of Education is developing a model computer program to help millions of high school and college students choose suitable careers.

Ultimately, the computer system will contain masses of information on job-market trends, future employment demands in major industries, required talents and training for different kinds of jobs, working conditions and pay to be expected.

A student will be able to ask any question related to a career, said the director, Professor David V. Tiedeman.

It is important that young people see in their jobs more than a means of earning a reasonable living. If they are to achieve the self-fulfillment that God wishes them to enjoy, they would do well to bring to the career of their choice a sincere desire to be of service to others.

"Let everyone lead the life which the Lord has assigned to him, and in which the Lord has called him."

Help us, Lord, to measure up to the opportunities for good in our daily tasks.

Cal-Expo Off To A Fine Start; Ingenious Use Of Ramps, Stairs

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Even the most hardened skeptics are due for a big surprise if they take the time and trouble to spend a few hours at California Exposition, the state's new $34 million extravaganza now open to the public.

Cal-Expo opened July 1, under circumstances not entirely auspicious, and it was predicted in some quarters that the work and money poured into this attempt to create a permanent seat of education and entertainment for the people of California would be a $34 million flop.

Instead, from the acceptance Cal-Expo is receiving from its brief appearance on the California scene, it could turn out a manifestation beyond the wildest hopes of its sponsors, who in effect, are all the people of California, as the people's money built this showplace.

AS YET, there are rough spots, as is only natural when something new appears on the scene. A finished product can't be expected until a period of trial and error has passed. And Cal-Expo is now in that period, where it will remain for some time.

However, in viewing Cal-Expo as it is today, the future must be kept in mind. The year or so that may be necessary to put the finishing touches on the exposition, and turn it into an attraction of world-wide note, amounts to but little time as far as the generations which will enjoy and benefit from the show are concerned.

Meanwhile, Cal-Expo is off to a good and solid start. Access to the grounds is easy, and parking no problem at all. Attendants at all points are courteous, and appear bent on making the visitor feel like a guest, an attitude which in fact is better than half the battle in operating an exposition of this type.

ONCE IN the grounds, the visitor feels as though he's entered a new kind of world, which he actually has, as there happens to be nothing like the exposition any place, a tribute to the designers. On a perfectly flat site, they have created a series of complexes through ingenious use of ramps, stairways and overhead walks which give the impression of uplands rather than plains.

The exhibit buildings are conveniently located and cooled for the comfort of the public. And inside the buildings are the arts, crafts, and industry of a state that's on the move. Exhibits of items unheard of in the daily course of life are shown, some bizarre, some outlandish, many useful and beautiful as well, but all pointing to the trend of the changing times.

AND AFTER a period of many years at an old and beat up grandstand at the race-track, this area now has a most modern and comfortable showplace for playing the ponies, which will open with the fall racing season. In the interim, it's being used for various shows designed to attract the public, and the public is responding. The crowds which saw the Mexican National Ballet when it played in front of the grandstand are an indication of what can be done in the way of entertainment.

And for the first time, a restaurant with not only first-class service but also gourmet food is open to the hungry public. This is located on the top floor of the race-track grandstand, and provides the area with another top-flight eating establishment.

Seeing is believing, and having seen, one can only come out with the belief that the destiny of Cal-Expo is written for success.

Cattle-Rich Argentina Suffers Milk Shortage

By RICHARD RITTER

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI)—Argentina is currently suffering a milk shortage which is embarrassing in that the country has twice as many cattle as its 22 million people — including 3 million dairy cows.

For Argentine housewives this means long queues at city supermarkets and dairy shops to carry back home a quart of milk —the country's average family daily quota.

The government blames a three-month drought for the shortage of milk and other dairy products. The drought affects a large dairy-producing area in Argentina, about the size of Texas.

DAIRY PRODUCERS and farmers, however, tell a different story.

"Some government officials have never seen a cow," said Guillermo Alchourron, a dairy producer who heads the Holando-Argentino Dairy Cattle Breeders Association (ACHA). The association, which represents 1,700 dairymen, brought the Holstein cow to Argentina 60 years ago to form the Holando-Argentino breed.

Breeders and farmers have been after the government for a rise in the price of milk, currently about 10 U.S. cents a quart.

They say the industry is going through its worst crisis and that a 2-cent per quart price rise would enable financing the movement of cattle to better pastures. They said it would also enable them to stockpile forage for more winter breeding.

THE GOVERNMENT has stiffly resisted the movement on grounds a higher price for milk "would upset the cost of living."

To offset the milk shortage, expected to worsen in coming months, the government has authorized for the first time the importation of dairy products up to July 31. The list includes powdered milk, skim milk, hard and semi-hard cheese, fresh butter and frozen cream.

The government itself is importing about 2,000 tons of unskimmed serum from Switzerland, Denmark and Holland, expected to give about 4 million gallons of milk after it is combined with water and mixed with other milk and proteins.

THE "REBUILT" milk supply, however, should last Argentinians 30 days at most.

Argentina currently produces about 1.07 million gallons of milk per year. That means an Argentine drinks 16 gallons of milk in a year.

Twenty years ago, Argentina's dairy output was about 1.2 million gallons of milk per year and the country's population, then 15 million, drank about 26 gallons of milk per capita a year.

In a humorous vein, Tato Bores, a television comedian, said recently the milk shortage could be attributed to "a strike of fallen udders."

Corte Maderans May Relax; Lagoon Will Not Be Filled In

Residents of the apartments facing the northwest corner of the Corte Madera Town Park who are up in arms because they think the lagoon in the park is being filled in can relax, according to town officials.

Members of 22 families who live in the apartments overlooking the park have signed a petition to Corte Madera Mayor Edward W. Colthurst asking that the lagoon which they think is being filled, be preserved.

The petition also speaks of the wild birds which formerly found refuge on a peninsula of the lagoon and who are now being driven away, according to petition signers, by youngsters who pelt the birds with rocks.

ACTUALLY, THE lagoon is not only not going to be filled but it is going to be enlarged, according to Arthur Morrison, director of public works for Corte Madera.

"Unfortunately, that corner of the park is the last part to be completed under the park's master plan," Morrison explained.

He refers to the plan which Corte Madera had drawn in 1958 by Royston, Hanamoto and Mayes, San Francisco landscape architects.

The town park, which has been built on what was formerly all marshland, is now pretty much finished according to the plan except for the lagoon area.

"We have no plans for filling in the lagoon," Town Manager Ronald L. Usher said. "We need the lagoon for storm drainage."

The lagoon will be slightly changed in area, Morrison said, but when completed will be larger than the present one.

IN THE MEANTIME, the area is unsightly because dirt is being dumped between the lagoon and Neil Cummins School. The area there was planned for parking, Morrison said, but now is going to be used as more park because neither the school nor the town feels the parking spaces are needed.

The dirt, which is fill from local projects of various contractors, has been free to the town but is still in large unlovely piles. This will be spread out soon, Morrison said, and eventually more grass will be planted.

Then the drainage ditch which runs along Redwood Avenue will be changed to form part of the enlarged lagoon, and the rest of the area tidied up and planted. There is even an island planned so that wildlife may find refuge from rock-throwers.

THE LAGOON and that corner of the park will not be completed for a couple of years, however, since the money necessary to dredge, plant and finish the area is not to be appropriated until 1970.

"When we actually go about completing the lagoon portion of the park, we plan to get Royston, Hanamoto and Mayes over here again to make the lagoon outline esthetically pleasing," Morrison said.

"In the meantime, residents of the apartments, where, incidentally, Morrison lives, will have to continue to look at a rather ugly picture.

98 Australian Students To Spend Time In Area

A group of 98 American Field Service foreign exchange students from Australia will arrive in Marin County on July 19 to spend 12 days here before leaving for their homes.

The students will arrive at the San Francisco International Airport at 6 a.m. and then be brought by bus to the Northgate Shopping Center. About 7:30 a.m., there, in the area behind the Emporium they will meet the families from Marin, Sonoma and Napa counties who will be their hosts for their stay.

The students have been attending high schools all over the country as seniors for the past year.

Starting June 25, they went on a bus tour of the country, which will end July 18 at Washington, D. C. The plane will leave Washington, D. C., that night and bring them to San Francisco.

Their visit to the Bay Area is the last stage of their trip. They will reassemble at the Northgate Center on July 30 for their return to Australia.

Cleaver Will Be Guest Speaker

Eldridge Cleaver, Black Panther minister of information, will be guest speaker at a Marin County Peace and Freedom Party meeting Friday at 7:30 p.m. in Olney Hall at the College of Marin. The meeting is opened to the public without charge.

Cleaver, a writer and the Peace and Freedom Party candidate for President, faces trial in connection with a spring gun battle with Oakland police.

Gardiner Names Juvenile Referee

Jack L. Blaine, San Rafael attorney, has been named a referee to handle preliminary detention hearings at juvenile hall, Marin Juvenile Judge Samuel W. Gardiner announced yesterday.

He said Blaine, of 1330 Lincoln Avenue, will handle the detention hearings that Judge Gardiner heretofore has handled at the hall each Tuesday and Thursday morning. The task is without pay.

Judge Gardiner last month named James D. Adams, another San Rafael attorney, to be juvenile court referee on a part-time basis. The appointments are designed to free Judge Gardiner for other court matters.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Will Union Militancy Bring Loss Of Tenure?

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Will teachers in California public schools be forced to give up their lifetime job tenure in exchange for a greater role in running the schools?

That may be the price, in the opinion of a member of the education committee of the California Senate.

State Sen. John L. Harmer, R-Glendale, in a recent letter to this columnist, commented:

"The whole scope of our relationship with teachers and faculty is changing as they approach a greater degree of militancy in seeking unionization, etc. It may well be that one of the things that will first fall as teachers demand more and more power through organizing themselves is the concept of tenure."

Harmer added: "I do not support the concept of unionization of teachers or public employees, but if it is going to happen, one of the things they will have to give up is the concept of tenure."

SENATOR HARMER'S comment is a bit ironic because teacher organizations already have won power greater than most unions — and with the help of the Legislature.

The Winton Act has given teacher representatives the right to be consulted on all matters pertaining to the curriculum, "definition of educational objectives," and "other aspects of the instructional program."

This act and the "instant tenure act" which extended job security to teachers before they have been three years in a district resulted from lobbying activity by teacher organizations. The quest for power has become an internecine struggle between the California Teachers Association and the AFL-CIO California Federation of Teachers. School trustees have either surrendered or are fighting merely a rear-guard action.

WHAT THE CFT thinks about tenure was succinctly set forth in a 1966 report of a CFT committee that investigated alleged threats to academic freedom in the San Rafael High School District. The report, by a committee headed by Eric A. Spiekerman, a San Francisco teacher, contained this statement:

"The state, by establishing its credential, has preempted the area of validated teacher competence."

In other words, in the CFT view, once a person has completed the required college courses and received a state teaching credential, his competency cannot be questioned, and he is assured lifetime tenure.

Similar contention has been put forward in various cases in which teachers have been "called on the carpet" for activities which school administrators and trustees felt were inimical to the education system. Almost every such instance has brought, from both the statewide teacher organizations, immediate cries of "infringement of academic freedom."

As the law now stands in California, a teacher once hired has tenure rights; i.e., he cannot be dismissed except for provable cause. When he is "granted tenure" on rehiring for a fourth year in a district, he gains the additional right of an automatic court review of firing for any cause whatever. All contracts after the fourth year are renewed automatically unless specific charges are brought against the teacher.

IT IS SCARCELY surprising that this has spawned an irresponsible attitude on the part of a few teachers. The result is the situation which causes Senator Harmer to believe it may be necessary to do away with teacher tenure.

Another approach might be to do away with the broad grant of powers to teacher organizations under the Winton Act. If teachers were not by law accorded a voice in all matters affecting the instructional program, it might be possible to make discharges stick for defiance of school board directives. One of the grounds for dismissal under the Education Code is "persistent violation of or refusal to obey . . . reasonable regulations prescribed . . . by the governing board of the school district."

The history of the world is but the biography of great men. — Thomas Carlyle.

Humility is not renunciation of pride but the substitution of one pride for another. — Eric Hoffer.

THE TENNIS COURTS aren't the only attraction for the teenagers who are in Belvedere for the Junior Tennis Tournament sponsored by the Belvedere Tennis Club. The club's pool refreshes competitors Darby Auerbach, left, of Belvedere and Annette D'Antonio, right, of San Francisco. In the background for some relaxation are Debbie Supple of Belvedere and Richard Rothrock and Charles Panui, both of Honolulu.

A SANDWICH break is enjoyed by players Jane Goodsill, Karen Kop and Steve Bartlett of Honolulu with Bee Kilgore and Ann Lamott of Tiburon. The latter two are doubles partners in the junior tournament at the Belvedere Tennis Club in Tiburon. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Hosting Tennis Teen-Agers

By MOLLY MARIN

Young tennis players from all over the country are in the Bevedere-Tiburon area this week playing in the junior tournament hosted by the Belvedere Tennis Club. And many are staying with local families.

J. Paul Wilkins, BTC professional, who has been running a new summer tennis camp at Sun Valley, Ida., flew out for the tournament. The Robert Kennedy children had been signed up for the summer sessions. Wilkins received a note from Ethel Kennedy expressing regret that the children could not continue with their plans. But they hope to go next summer.

Two of the BTC youngsters will go on to more advanced competition later this summer. Michael Machette of Belvedere is headed for the boys nationals at Kalamazoo, Mich., and Sharon Walsh of Tiburon will compete in tournaments in St. Louis, Mo., Dayton, O., and Lake Bluff, Ill.

A LARGE group of players have come from Honolulu for the tournament here. Those from Hawaii are Todd Dacey, staying with Col. and Mrs. Dan Richards of Belvedere; Jane Goodsill and Pat Ong, with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Oller of Belvedere; Tim and Kent Sunderland, Steve Bartlett and Peter Isaak, with Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Supple; Westley Stockstill, with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fleming; Ruth Sakamoto and Pamela Nunn, with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Auerbach; Charles Panui with Mrs. B. S. Bedillion, Karen Kop and Arlene Kashiwada with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dupuis. Mary Hamilton of Hawaii, the chaperon with the Honolulu contingent, is staying with Mr. and Mrs. William Lang.

Other players from out of town staying with Belvedere families are Gary Freeman of Reno with the Henry Bolcoms, Nancy Mark of Atherton with the Dickerson McAfees, Susan Fairman of Reno with the John Wileys, and Bob Boland of Denver with the Ralph McGills. Margot Hemingway, formerly of Mill Valley, now of Sun Valley, Ida., is staying with Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Kilgore Jr. in Tiburon.

LONDON, ATHENS, Istanbul and East Africa were points of interest in the seven week trip that Mr. and Mrs. Laurance T. Kett of Marin Country Club Estates in Novato have just completed.

The Ketts visited her family in London for 10 days. They then flew on to Athens and cruised the Greek Islands, where Mrs. Kett said they had the only good weather on the trip.

Flying on to Nairobi from Istanbul, they went on a five day safari to game parks at Ngorongoro crater, Amboseli and Lake Manyara. Mrs. Kett formerly lived in East Africa, so they enjoyed staying with two of her friends. They both own coffee plantations and another interesting part of the trip was watching the harvest of coffee.

They drove to the coast in heavy rains with the roads nearly impassable, Mrs. Kett said. The rains were a month earlier and two months longer than usual, she said and suggested that a tour of East Africa be made a little later in the season.

"FOREVER 39" was the theme of the surprise birthday party which Mrs. Robert Trieber gave for her husband last Wednesday at their Belvedere home. Thirty-three guests from Marin and the bay area attended the dinner. Bob's mother, Mrs. Samuel Falk of San Francisco, his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lindauer of Woodside were present, and former Tiburon residents Mr. and Mrs. James Ramstead came from Los Angeles for the occasion.

BRIDE-ELECT Susan Pemberton will be honored at a shower and tea to be given on July 24 from 2 to 4 p.m. by Mrs. Rodney B. Hartman at the Hartmans' home in Mill Valley. Some 25 guests have been invited.

Susan, who is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William H. Pemberton of Mill Valley, will become the bride of George E. Webber, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Edward Webber of Tacoma, Wash., on Aug. 18 at the Community Church of Mill Valley.

She is now in Tacoma visiting her fiance's family. While she is there she will be honored at showers given by her future mother-in-law and her fiance's aunt, Mrs. Russell Frye of Tacoma.

A SURPRISE BIRTHDAY for John Drechsel was arranged by his wife, Candy, on Sunday. The informal supper was held at the home of John's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Drechsel on the Belvedere Lagoon. Guests were close friends of John's from Belvedere. The younger Drechsels have recently moved to Marin from Fort Worth, Tex., where John had duty with the U. S. Air Force.

VISITING IN Marin are the Rev. and Mrs. Sigmund G. Sandrock. The Rev. Sandrock is the former pastor of the Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church in Tiburon.

The couple, who now live in Freeport, Grand Bahama Island, are visiting their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Norman E. Dean in Novato, and getting acquainted with their first grandchild, Daniel Paul Dean, 8 month old. Their younger children, Paul and Sigrid, are traveling with them.

The Deans gave an open house for the visitors at their home in Novato Sunday afternoon. A coffee hour followed the morning service at the Shepherd of the Hills Church, giving the Sandrocks' Tiburon friends an opportunity to greet them.

The family will leave Marin on Monday, and plan to visit relatives in Iowa, and then go to Boston where they will see another daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jech. The Jechs have been living in Boston while Carl has been doing advanced study at the Theological Seminary at Harvard University. They will move to Michigan in the fall, where the young minister has been assigned to his first church.

Marin Women

Sara Stumm To Be A Bride In August

The engagement of Sara Margaret Stumm of San Rafael and Robert Michael Rowland of Novato has been announced and Aug. 6 nuptials are planned.

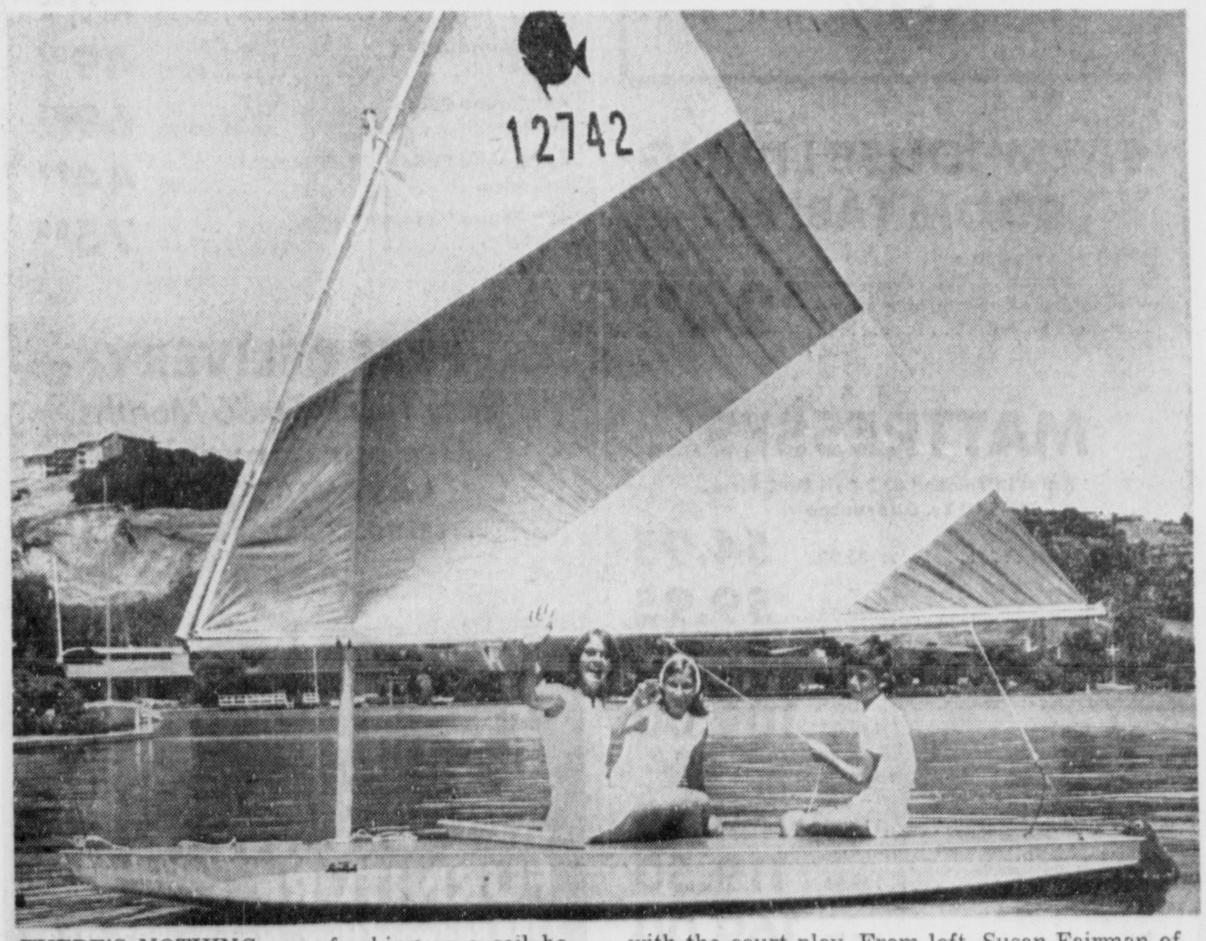
The future bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Robert Stumm of San Rafael and the late Mr. Stumm, was graduated from Redwood High School and has attended College of Marin. She is employed with the Chinese Kitchen, Larkspur. Lee Ann Stumm of Ukiah is her sister.

Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Rowland of San Francisco and the brother of James G. Rowland and Mrs. Carl W. Bishop. Harris Rowland of Santa Clara is his grandfather.

Robert was graduated from Bellflower High School and attended College of Marin before being employed with Novato Ambulance Co.

Drape Bedspreads

For effective bedroom decor, hang an extra set of matching washable bedspreads as draperies. They have sufficient body to drape in handsome folds.



THERE'S NOTHING so refreshing as a sail between sets, and the youngsters playing in the tennis tournament enjoy the social activities along with the court play. From left, Susan Fairman of Reno, Patricia Gomez of Belvedere and Steven Johnson of Reno try a little light-breeze sailing on the Belvedere Lagoon.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Which Has Priority, Girl Or Best Friend?

DEAR HELEN:

I have taken your readers' advice about not going steady, and I'm for it. But now I have a problem. I want to go out with my best buddy's girl friend. They aren't going steady and each says the other is free to date but I feel the guilt of my conscience and I sense my friend's sharp teeth in my neck.

The girl seems eager.

How do I tactfully get a date with her, and how do I stay friends with the guy — if I do? — FIELDER

DEAR FIELDER:

You don't! . . . Not if you'd keep the friendship of your best buddy. Is the girl worth a break-up? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I just finished looking at the movie listings in the paper and I'm disgusted. It's just pure junk. Only not very pure. Things like "Teen-age Mother," "The Sex Chasers," "The Bedroom Games," "The Sex Gang" are just a mild sampling.

Doesn't anybody care more about what we kids see? The sign says "For Adults Only," but an adult is anyone who can pay to get in.

Why can't they make good movies (and I don't mean corny kiddy stuff) more often?

— EIGHTH GRADER

DEAR E. G.:

I wish they would. Producers have a silly "modern" idea that only sex and violence sells. They should remember "The Sound of Music!" — H.

DEAR HELEN:

A note to thank the thousands of people who sent cards and letters to Butch Cunningham, the 18-year-old sufferer from muscular distrophy in Paris, Arkansas. They have brought much happiness to a boy who lives in a wheel chair.

Butch has been tremendously cheered by people in all walks of life, and all ages. So much is written about the "bums" that we begin to wonder where the decent people are. We here in Paris have found out.

DEAR HELEN:

I am somewhat confused about the purpose of the Virgin Pin the girls wear today. In the beginning I thought that only girls who were virgins wore them, but now I even see them on married women. A good friend is pregnant and she wears a Virgin Pin on her coat.

Maybe I'm old-fashioned, or am I wrong about the pin?

— J. O. F.

DEAR J.:

I hate to admit ignorance, but I've never heard of a Virgin Pin. Help, anybody. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My parents hate each other's guts. They fight constantly. Some days I feel as though I'm going to have a nervous breakdown. I get along fabulously with my mother, and just as well with my father — when they're apart. But when they're together, it's like living in Hell. They involve us kids in their fights and we don't feel like taking sides, for we can see they're both wrong — they just weren't made to live together. But they won't divorce.

What can we do to make them see we can't take it much longer?

— GOING OUT OF MY HEAD

DEAR GOOMH:

If you get along fabulously with both your parents — when they're apart—then insist to both that they must consult a marriage counselor—for their childrens' sakes. Perhaps they don't realize what they are doing to you. — H.

PERSONAL TO "WORRYING" — Your doctor will provide confidential treatment. For further information call the County Health Department. You need not give your name. — H.

Designer's Tips

Designer Don Loper's timely tips on fashion and grooming are: don't follow the pack; buy your clothes with a plan; don't shop with women; pants are for house cleaning; don't change a good hairstyle; fads can't set skirt lengths.

Air Pollution Meets Its Match

NEW YORK (UPI)—Public enemy number one—air pollution—has met its match in the inventiveness of Jane Jessor, designer.

She dressed up a World War I gas mask with garlands of pink and yellow roses, chic false eyelashes and kooky pipecleaner eyebrows. At the heart of the mask—or is it a hat—is an activated charcoal filter.

Camp Fire Teen-Agers To Visit Marin On A Conservation Tour

A group of teen-age Camp Fire Girls from throughout the United States will converge on Marin Saturday for a very special purpose — they are studying conservation areas first hand.

The group of girls, who have just finished attending a conference in Estes Park, Colo. on conservation problems sponsored by the National Horizon Club, will arrive tomorrow in San Francisco for a full day of touring. They will be staying with host families who are members of the Golden Gate Council of Camp Fire. Then on Saturday the girls will cross the Golden Gate Bridge to visit Vista Point, the San Francisco Bay model in Sausalito, Muir Woods, the Audubon Canyon Ranch, where they will have lunch. Then they will go on to Point Reyes National Seashore, and try some swimming at Drake's Bay. In the evening they will have dinner at Wohelo, the Camp Fire Camp near Fairfax, and spend the night with the host families.

Families who will host the girls in Marin are Mrs. Jefferson Childs and her daughter Lori of Novato, the John Del Pretes and their daughter Diana of San Rafael, the L. A. Kottenstettes and their daughter Nini of San Rafael, the George H. Pelmears and their daughter Terri of Novato, the John Polachs and their daughter Lynn of Corte Madera, the Louis T. Noels and their daughter Patti of San Rafael, the Preston J. Nolans and Audrey Nolan of San Rafael, the Jay Simons and Kay Simon of Corte Madera and the C. W. Van Dykes and their daughter Jane of San Rafael.

THE NOVATO Rotary Anns, wives of Rotary Club members, will entertain at a luncheon July 19 for Mrs. Robert E. Barwick, wife of the governor of District 513, Rotary International, at the Lodge in Novato. Mr. Barwick will address the Rotary Club that day in Novato. Mrs. Robert Dougherty wife of the Novato Rotary Club president, will be the hostess. The Barwicks make their home in Napa.

THE NCO WIVES of Fort Barry are emphasizing programs at their monthly social meeting the third Wednesday of each month. Business meetings are held the first Wednesday; all are at the NCO Club at the Presidio.

July 17, the San Francisco Police Department will present the program with the topic "Narcotics". Husbands and the public, over 21, are invited. Mrs. Allan Huston is program chairman for the year which runs July through June.

Best Food Buys Given Shoppers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that meat and poultry, several fresh vegetables, and some fresh fruit are in good supply in food stores and supermarkets for weekend food shoppers.

BROILER-FRYER chickens and turkeys are again the most abundant meats. Steaks and roasts are featured in the beef line along with ground beef in some areas. Bacon and smoked picnics take the spotlight among the pork items with ham in good supply along with the usual fresh cuts. Fish fillers, canned tuna, and North Pacific halibut steaks are fish buys to watch for, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Cabbage, lettuce, onions, potatoes and tomatoes are the most abundant vegetables. Celery and corn are also abundant in some areas. Fruit in the abundant class include cantaloupes, peaches, and watermelons; and plums and strawberries in some areas.

IN THE WEST:

Listings on several major wholesale cuts of both fresh and cured pork are considerably higher in all western markets. Significant changes include a gain on sliced bacon in San Francisco. Prices on beef and other red meats are mostly steady.

Grade AA large and medium eggs are higher in San Francisco; the two sizes are each higher in Portland where grade AA small eggs are up.

Ready - to-cook chicken fryers are showing slight increases in California markets.

VEGETABLES AND fruits in best supply this week include cabbage, carrots, celery, lettuce, dry onions, potatoes, tomatoes, bananas, oranges, peaches, and strawberries.

Fish buys to watch for in the West are salmon steaks, sea bass, rockfish fillets, sole and flounder fillets, canned tuna, North Pacific halibut steaks, ling cod, and ocean perch fillets.

Poison

Carbon tetrachloride contained in dry-cleaning fluid and polishes can be deadly if taken internally or used in a confined unventilated room.

WEDDING VOWS were exchanged by Anne R. Bowman of Sausalito and Bruce B. von Borstel of Belvedere at Sausalito Presbyterian Church, with a reception following at the Alta Mira Hotel. The couple will live in Mill Valley.

Meyer-Kendrick Wed In Fairfax Ceremony

Carol Ann Meyer became the bride of William James Kendrick of Miami, Fla. at evening nuptials July 3 at the Meadow Club in Fairfax. A reception followed the ceremony also at the club.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Meyer of San Rafael, Carol was attended by her sister, Mrs. C. F. Keebaugh Jr. (Diane Meyer) of Novato as matron of honor. Her husband was best man for the bridegroom.

The couple are on a wedding trip to Tokyo and Okinawa, where they will live while the bridegroom is stationed there as a U.S. Army lieutenant. Then they plan to live in Coral Gables, Fla.

The bride was graduated from San Rafael High School and University of Miami.

William, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay P. Kendrick of Miami, was graduated from Lanier Senior High School in Macon, Ga., and Tampa University and Miami University School of Law.

Conventional Hose

The dark and colored stocking look fashion makers ordered in for spring and summer apparently hasn't caught on with buyers of American fashions. The drumming in was done last December and January—the time for showing spring and summer clothes. But in the New York showrooms in June to see fall and winter clothes the buyers showed mostly legs covered by conventionally colored hose.

A Southern, Negro 'Romeo' Falls Short Of Its Goals

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Critic

WASHINGTON — Family feud becomes racial conflict in the "Romeo and Juliet" which premiered earnestly but erratically last night at the outdoor arena by the Washington Monument.

The updating twist of turning the Capulet clan into Negroes in switchblade and cane sword confrontation with white Montagues in an early 19th Century New Verona, La., was thought up rather than thought out by director Philip Burton. He, of course, is the foster father of Richard Burton.

Shakespeare's dialogue and plot remain carefully intact. The transformation causes only an occasional awkward moment of incredibility—without, however, opening any new insight into either the original or offering comment on contemporary matters.

The performance could, mildly, be much better. As the star-crossed maiden, Janet League offers a desirable girlish naivete, but never suggests burning romantic passion. It would take an actress of far greater experience than Miss League, who before has appeared in small parts at New York's Lincoln Center and Stratford, Conn., to conjure excitement opposite the awkward Romeo of Neil Hunt.

In supporting roles, Christian Alderson does a robustly persuasive Mercutio and Joseph Palmieri contributes a gem of portrayal as Friar Laurence. Father Capulet, in the person of William Vines, is sure of manner while Carolyn Y. Cardwell capers as a fulsome Nurse in person and behavior.

The production, on through Aug. 25, is the eighth annual open-air Shakespeare salute put on with hard-gleaned contributions by Ellie Chamberlain Galidas.

'Jazz And Kids' Program Set Sunday In Marin City

"Jazz and Kids," a program of music, singing and dancing, will be staged at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church, Drake Avenue at Donahue Street, Marin City, at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

The show will be held to raise funds to enlarge and improve the church's playground for Marin City youngsters.

Children attending the church's day camp will perform under the direction of singer Margo Jones, now appearing at the Hungry I night club in San Francisco, and Beverly Barnes, history teacher at Sir Francis Drake High School.

Entertainment representing a variety of cultures will include an Afro-American dance, the Mexican song "Cielito Lindo," "Brahm's Lullaby," the Italian song "Santa Lucia," and an American spiritual, "Ain't Gonna Study War No More."

Miss Jones and Miss Barnes will perform jazz and popular ballads and accompanied by jazz pianist George Luke, who will also play his own compositions. Folk singer Chuck Richardson will perform and lead audience-participation.

There will be no admission charge but donations will be welcomed.

Mario Lanza's Daughter To Sing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The late Mario Lanza's daughter Coleen, is launching a career as a rock singer after studying operetta eight months under her father's voice teacher.

Superior Court Judge William McFadden approved her one-year recording contract yesterday. The 19-year-old Miss Lanza must save 25 per cent of the 4.5 per cent royalties on her records.

The teen-ager has studied under Mario Slyva, who taught her movie tenor father.

A year after Lanza died in 1959, his wife Elizabeth died. Coleen and the couple's three other children live with Lanza's parents in nearby Pacific Palisades.

Jousting Tourney Will Help Open Annual Festival

A medieval jousting competition — with contestants in the dress of that period — will help celebrate the opening of the Marin Shakespeare Festival's season on July 20.

Bay Area horsemen and riders 14 and over may enter the jousting tournament which will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. July 20 at Northgate Mall.

The event is part of a two-day pageant, which will include scenes from Shakespearean plays, strolling musicians, puppet shows and dancers, to be staged July 19 and 20 at Northgate Mall.

Riders who wish to participate may contact the Marin Shakespeare Festival, Box 2306, San Rafael. More than a dozen riders have entered so far, according to John Brebner, festival director.

The festival's season runs from July 20 through Sept. 28.

SKATING SHOW REVIEW

It's A Good Evening All Around At The Ice Follies

By GARY TISCHLER

I've finally figured out the perfect critic for the Ice Follies.

Next Year, I'm going to take my 3-year-old son, who will be 4 by then, set him front and center where Inky Dinky the Bear comes scooting by, where the ice chips fly furiously, where the skaters hand out multi-coloured ballons and I will watch his face turn red.

And if he laughs and gasps and talks about it for hours, then I'll have it made and known that the Shipstads and the Johnsons have done a pretty good job again.

You can, being way past 3 years old, marvel at the skating precision, sneak a look at all the chorus lovelies, admire the rainbow costumes and cast a cold eye to see if everyone is in step but you will be only halfway there and beside the point. For the Ice Follies — and this year's edition at the Winterland is no exception — are in that very special genre of the circus and rodeo, the Punch and Judy shows and carnivals that only children can enjoy for what they really are — good shows, mink rabbits out of an expensive top hat.

I didn't have my son's help at last night's San Francisco opening, a benefit performance for underprivileged children. But I did have last year's performance as something of a guideline, not always a fair process.

This year's edition seems to be not as precise, not quite so lavish. There are rough spots but the show seems to have picked up a certain amount of personality. There are fewer pasted-on toothy smiles and there is barely any of the nervously grim, ice-brittle feeling of tenseness. The skaters, especially the girls, seem to be loose and enjoying themselves, somethimg that is contagious.

Having seen one show, you tend to veer towards old favorites that are still around.

I'll just mention a few that warmed me — you can pick your own. Richard Dwyer, who is sort of the Cary Grant of the Follies, gave what turned out to be a gutsy-smooth prformance, working as he was under the strain of painful muscle injuries. Now 32, he still has the elan of a handsome Harold Lloyd and he seems to have picked a suitable partner in Susan Berens, a lively little blonde, who has a kind of petite explosiveness about her that helped her past a run-in with a stage curtain.

Little Susie Wilyliams, offspring of the skating Williams family, is going to be a great one. She is already a darn good skater, and she is, to over-use a bad term, cute.

The post-intermission showstopper, in addition to a solo performance by Dwyer, were Inge and Willi Schilling, headlining the Rain Rendezvous spectacular. They combined skating acrobatics and wizardry with a build-up of alluring grace.

The huge bits for the children, including the marvelous Inky's Pastry Shoppe number, with its Gingerbread and Snickerdoodles and Inky himself, would delight any child.

The clowns ranged the spectrum of technique. The venerable Mr. Frick, a 28-year veteran of the follies, and the Scarecrows exemplify the two extremes. Frick relies not at all on flying waterbuckets, and extravagant slapstick, which the Scarecrows do, but simply on rubber bones. If the Scarecrows date back to the Keystone Cops, then Frick is the Chaplin of the ice.

The finale is a Rockette type salute to the U.S. as a sparkling line of girl skaters, decked out in red, white and blue, give a precision salute to patriotism. They are infinitely prettier than the U.S. Marines or John Wayne and they can wave my flag anytime.

But next year, my son is going.

Accident Prone

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—A city traffic report says motorists most prone to accidents are 25 to 34 years old, driving on a dry street in daylight, between 3 and 5 p.m.

Abalone Limit Breakers Fined

Two Sonoma County men were fined $100 each in Northwest Marin Justice Court yesterday on charges of having 28 abalones in their possession when the limit is five.

Earl J. Brambrink, 53, of Sonoma, and Jerlee W. Stockton, 44, of El Verano, also were placed on a year's probation and ordered to surrender their fishing licenses for that period by Judge David R. Baty.

The two were caught near Point Reyes Station yesterday by state Fish and Game Warden Alfred E. Giddings.

Bolinas Directors Authorize Bid Calls

Bids for a backhoe and a new water line from Wharf Road to the end of Brighton Avenue were authorized by the Bolinas Community Public Utility District board last night.

Directors also set a special meeting for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday to adopt the 1968-69 budget.

Folksinger Set For Two Recitals

Marlene Tait, Richmond folk singer, will perform in two recitals Saturday at Point Reyes Station.

The recitals, to which adults will not be admitted unless accompanied by children, are scheduled for 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. at the West Marin Art Center on the Shoreline Highway.

Children will be admitted free to the afternoon performance.

Guilty Pleas Made To Reduced Charges

Two Tucson, Ariz., youths pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a reduced joint charge of trespassing in a Sausalito home.

Judgment is scheduled for 9 a.m. Monday. The pair, Roy James Griffith, 18, and Maurice Provasty Wynne Jr., 20, originally was accused of burglary of the home of Walter R. Wright Jr., 40 Santa Rosa Avenue, on June 24.

Pentagon Boss Turns Down Rickover Quiet Sub Hopes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, in what amounted to a rebuke to Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, disclosed today he has authorized construction of a super, high speed U.S. submarine.

Rickover, the Navy's nuclear submarine expert, had sharply criticized Pentagon officials recently for holding up his own concept of a new sub, one which would operate with great stealth and quiet.

Clifford, however, announced today that on July 1 he had chosen the advance design backed by his chief scientist, Dr. John S. Foster Jr., and Alain Enthoven, his systems analyst.

At the same time, without specifically naming him, Clifford suggested that Rickover direct his efforts more on submarine work and less on "engaging in personal criticism."

Rickover, a congressional favorite, had testified in secret March hearings made public last Friday that Foster was using studies to delay work on his proposed quiet submarine.

Clifford indicated Foster and Enthoven placed more importance in increasing the speed of American nuclear submarines, rather than in putting the focus on reduced noise levels, to help them track and destroy enemy underwater craft.

The Rio Grande River is 1,885 miles long.

Clifford said that on July 1 he chose to go ahead with what he called a "super high speed" design. He declined to say how much faster the vessel would be than existing nuclear attack submarines but indicated it was an improvement necessary to keep a check on the growing Soviet submarine fleet.

Clifford gave no costs nor any other details on the new submarine, but recent congressional testimony indicated the vessel would cost around $185 million.

The latest Sturgeon-class atomic-driven subs cost $85 million.

Taking note of congressional concern over the Soviet submarine program, Clifford said the new super sub will be developed in addition to an extensive American submarine program which will eventually encompass 69 nuclear attack vessels.

Thirty-four of these have been built, with 35 more under construction or planned. Clifford priced the additional 35 at more than $3 billion.

The quiet submarine, which would be electric-driven rather than nuclear, is still being studied, Clifford said.

South Dakota also is known as the Coyote State.

Water Directors Fill Vacancies

Charles Soldavini was named treasurer and Norma Smith secretary of the Marin Municipal Water District yesterday by the board to fil positions being vacated by Robert Brusatori, who serves both as secretary and treasurer.

Brusatori, who has been with the district 48 years, is retiring July 31. Sodavini has been assistant treasurer for the district and Mrs. Smith, executive secretary.

Peter R. Gilliam was appointed controller.

The board aso accepted the low bid of $3,826 by McKesson Chemical Co. for nine tons of copper sulphate and agreed to purchase gasoline from Shell Oil Co. in a joint contract with the County of Marin.

Requests from the Boy Scouts for hikes on water district land on Oct. 19 and Feb. 1, 1969 and the trail riders association for rides on July 13 and 14 were approved by the board.

The eighth wedding anniversary is traditionally known as the Bronze Anniversary.

Palace Is Reluctant To Be Landmark

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Sheraton-Palace Hotel, over the objections of its owners, was nominated as a San Francisco landmark yesterday.

The Landmarks Advisory Board unanimously voted to honor the hotel despite testimony from Sheraton-Palace officials that the designation would unduly hamper any possible alterations they might want to make.

The Palace was built in 1875, but destroyed by the San Francisco earthquake of 1906. It was later rebuilt. The hotel was cited by the board for its famous Garden Court Restaurant.

Under the landmarks ordinance, six months' notice is required before the building can be razed.

The landmark designation must be approved by the San Francisco Planning Commission and the Board of Supervisors before it becomes official.

All-Robot Labor Seen

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Thinking computers should relieve man of the need to work for a living by the year 2050, says a University of Southern California engineer.

Dr. Alfred C. Ingersoll, dean of USC's school of engineering, believes computers all eventually be capable of thinking and will take over mining, producing, manufacturing, designing and building.

Man, he said, will be left to more lofty pursuits such as painting, music and mountain climbing.

"Development of electronic brain cells that can genuinely think is already under way," the educator said in an interview yesterday.

Clergy To Weigh Race Relations

A group of Marin County clergy will meet at 8 p.m. today in St. Raphael's Hall in San Rafael to discuss improving race relations in the county.

The clergy has organized in response to an appeal from the Marin County Human Rights Commission.

Tonight's pubic meeting and two that will follow the next two weeks will deal with 'Unpacking the Kerner Report." Discussion will be led tonight by Mrs. Rex Fink of Belvedere.

Merged Districts Call It Shoreline Unified

Shoreline Unified School District is the new name of the amalgamated districts along Tomales and Bodega bays.

Trustees of the new district selected the name at a meeting last night in Tomales High School.

The high school district and the Tomales Bay, West Marin, Watson and Bodega Bay elementary districts were merged by voters June 4.

The new district had been using the name Tomales Unified School District until last night. Superintendents of the merged districts and residents were asked to submit new names.

Other titles considered were Coastline, Coastland, Marinoma (a combination of Marin and Sonoma), San Andreas (after the fault which runs through the district), Twin Bays and Tomales.

Richmond Bridge Traffic Increases

Traffic on the Richmond-San Rafael bridge increased 13.2 per cent last month over the June, 1967, figure, the state Division of Boy Toll Crossings announced today.

The bridge had 515,390 crossings, a new monthly record.

Total traffic for the seven Bay area bridges run by the state was 8,993,848, an increase of 7.6 per cent over June, 1967.

Transit-Span Merger Idea Suggested

A proposal to consider "assimilation of the Marin Transit District into the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District" was made today by Marin Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen at a meeting of the Tri-Partite Transit Committee.

Kettenhofen asked committee chairman Jack Morrison, a San Francisco supervisor, if the item could be placed on the agenda at the committee's next meeting on Aug. 14, and Morrison agreed.

The committee devoted most of its meeting to discussion because they were unable to muster a quorum and could take no official action.

In other meetings at the bridge district office this morning, the insurance committee of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District voted to ask Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, to waive workmen's compensation insurance provisions from his bill requiring the district to call for bids on all contracts over $5,000.

The district board will take up the recommendations at tomorrow's meetings.

Director Stephen C. Leondoudakis said the request is essential because state statutes require public agencies to insure through the state workmen's compensation insurance fund.

District board president John E. Nelson urged directors to be on hand in Sacramento when Bagley's bill AB-855 comes up in the local government committee on Monday.

'Fast-Draw' Injury At Archery Range

A 22-year-old San Rafael man, Hilry Kyle Otten, suffered a minor right leg injury during a "fast-draw" practice session with his pistol, sheriff's officers said today.

Deputies said Otten, of 1333 Fourth Street, was practicing at an archery range on North San Pedro Road about 2:15 p.m. Tuesday when the .22-caliber gun discharged in his holster. He was treated by a private physician.

CRUSADE POST — Earl E. Boutilier of San Rafael, president-manager of United California Bank in San Rafael, has been named to serve a second year as Marin County commerce and industry chairman of the United Bay Area Crusade campaign among county commercial and industrial firms.

Belated Novato Fire Truck Due

After more than 18 months of waiting, the Novato Fire District will get its aerial ladder truck next week, the board was notified last night at its regular meeting.

The $70,363 truck was ordered on Dec. 1, 1966, from Crown Coach Co. of Los Angeles with delivery date set at 300 working days. Many delays occurred in procuring parts because of the war effort, according to Fire Chief George Cavallero.

The truck will have a fire fighting platform capable of being elevated 85 feet into the air at the end of a snorkel. The truck was driven from Los Angeles to Saint Joseph, Mo. to have the snorkel attached, and will be driven back to the West Coast, Cavallero said.

The board set Aug. 7 to interview the 10 men who passed the written examination for firemen, Cavallero said.

The board paid architects Gromme and Priestley $3,035 for work done so far in designing the drill tower for the Atherton Avenue site.

It adjourned to 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday to discuss salaries.

Collision Hurts Hub Cycle Rider

A 19-year-old San Anselmo resident was treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for leg cuts he suffered when his motorcycle struck an auto stopped for a red light at Court and Fourth streets in San Rafael.

Floyd W. Ellis Jr. of 26 Grove Lane, San Anselmo, told San Rafael police that a piece of paper blown into his face distracted his attention so that he failed to see the auto in front of him, driven by Anna G. Gragg, 15, of 12 Briarwood Drive, San Rafael.

State Dropping Role In War Poverty Funds

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The state announced yesterday it has dropped plans to take a major role in the distribution of federal antipoverty funds in California.

Health and welfare officials accused the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity of violating the "expressed wishes of Congress" by placing roadblocks in front of the plans.

A dispute arose between the OEO and Gov. Ronald Reagan earlier this year when Reagan said he wanted the state named a community action agency eligible to disburse federal funds.

Federal officials understood him to mean that he wanted the state to supersede the 42 local community action agencies in California.

Reagan said Tuesday he wanted the state to assume the role for counties not already having antipoverty agencies.

Marin County has its own local agency, the Economic Opportunity Council.

Additionally, Reagan said, the state hoped to "redirect programs for antipoverty projects."

Health and Welfare Administrator Spencer Williams confirmed that plans to establish the state as a community action agency have been abandoned.

"When the OEO indicates their conformity with Congress' intent, we will submit a state plan for community action," he said in a letter to Laurence P. Horan, regional OEO director. "To do so at this point would be a meaningless gesture."

Walter Barkdull, an assistant to Williams, explained that in the state's view federal legislation establishing the war on poverty "clearly indicated they were anxious for the state to be a community action agency."

"It became obvious that the federal administrators of the program were opposed to that," he said.

Horan interpreted the state's decision as recognition that the poor want to conduct their own affairs.

The decision, said Horan, "is particularly gratifying to me because it verifies that the poor are not only speaking out to, but are being heard in, the highest councils of government."

A hearing was held in Fresno last month to determine local reaction to the state plan. Witnesses were "over-whelmingly hostile," Horan said.

He said all 42 antipoverty agencies in the state have opposed the plan.

Brooklyn Police Fight Swindlers Linked To Mafia

NEW YORK (AP) — Police have arrested 13 persons and smashed what they say was an organized crime ring that swindled millions of dollars from legitimate businessmen.

Brooklyn Dist. Atty. Aaron E. Koota announced the arrests yesterday, shortly after three flatbed trucks were used to haul merchandise seized in the raids to his office.

"These people, directed by powerful Mafia leaders, operated a swindle amounting to several millions of dollars over the past five years," Koota said.

The ring operated by buying merchandise from legitimate distributors with bad checks, Koota said, and then distributing it through 14 outlets in the metropolitan area.

Koota said the key to the ring was a Brooklyn firm, Continental Trading Co., which obtained a Dunn & Bradstreet rating by depositing $30,000 in cash. Koota said a "Mr. Big," not further identified, had supplied the deposit.

Capt. Alfred T. Little (Army, ret.) is president of Marin County Retired Officers Association.

Retarded Day Camp Planned

A summer day camp for severely retarded and handicapped children from Marin and other Bay Area counties will begin Monday at the Recreation Center for the Handicapped Camp Spindrift in San Francisco.

Activities will be conducted from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday through Aug. 30. Busing will be provided by the center.

Parents may register their children by calling the center. Camperships are still available, center officials said.

Cyanide Blamed In East Bay Couple's Deaths

OAKLAND (AP) — A nationally known medical researcher and his wife both died of cyanide poisoning and their deaths have been tentatively listed as suicide.

This report by the Alameda County coroner's office last night further deepened the central mystery in the deaths of Dr. Laurence Wilkie Kinsell, 60, and his wife, Martha, 54.

Chief coroner's investigator Roland Prahl said no notes were found in the Kinsell residence. "The gross pathology indicates neither was suffering from anything indicating any reason for suicide," he added.

Dr. Kinsell, head of the Institute for Metabolic Research at Alameda County's Highland Hospital, gained national reknown when he pioneered research in the relationship between saturated fats and cholesterol levels in the blood.

Optimist Club Seats Officers

Harold Hockett of Corte Madera was installed as president of the Optimist Club of Corte Madera.

The club will host a Little League team at a luncheon at noon Wednesday at Bob's of Marin restaurant, Corte Madera.

Charles Newman of Corte Madera and Dean Merrick of Novato were installed as vice presidents and Milton Adams of Novato as secretary-treasurer.

Parks Board Will Discuss Bolinas Marine Reserve Plan

Designation of Duxbury Reef and Bolinas Lagoon as a marine reserve area will be discussed by a state board Saturday.

Mrs. Thomas R. Maurice of Terra Linda will report her findings when the State Advisory Board on Underwater Parks meets at Carmel.

Mrs. Maurice, vice-chairman of the board, will also report her findings at Salt Point Ranch, a state-owned area on the Sonoma County Coast.

She told the Independent-Journal yesterday that the Bolinas area will be looked into as a possible marine reserve area rather than as a marine park. She said extensive tidepool life on the reef may be threatened by extensive specimen collecting by individuals and groups.

Salt Point is being considered as an underwater park, she said, with potential for combined camping and research by colleges, scout groups and the like.

The board, composed of expert divers, was appointed this year to advise the State Department of Parks and Recreation on underwater recreation and conservation.

The coast survey is a step toward a plan for a chain of reserve areas and underwater parks suited for spearfishing, tide pool collecting, marine science, surfing, fishing and underwater photography.

The Bolinas area is unique, Mrs. Maurice said, in having four distinct areas — lagoon, mud flats, sandspit and outer reef — in a small area.

The advisory board will make diving inspections tomorrow along 45 miles of the Big Sur coast from the Albacore, 95-foot State Fish and Game Department boat.

Saturday's meeting will start at 9 a.m. at Carmel High School. Main emphasis will be on discussion of Salt Point and of the Scripps-La Jolla submarine canyon area near San Diego.

Impersonation Roles Are Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark says an order has been issued instructing FBI agents not to impersonate newsmen during investigations.

Clark disclosed the order in a letter dated July 8 to Bill Small, CBS News bureau chief in Washington, who had complained in behalf of the three major networks, that FBI agents posed as television newsmen June 17 during an alleged draftcard 'burning incident in Washington.

Clark worte in the letter released yesterday: "Instructions have been issued by the FBI director to all FBI personnel that under no circumstances are they ever to pose as members of the news media in connection with any future investigations."

Swimming Lessons Registration Set

Registration for the third session of Red Cross swimming lessons at Tamalpais High School will be held July 20 in the boys' gym at the school.

Doors will open at 8:30 a.m., but recreation officials suggested arriving about 7 a.m. to be assured of getting into a class. Only children accompanied by parents will be allowed to register.

National League To Have Two Divisions For 1969

HOUSTON (AP) — For the time being, at least, major league baseball has set its house in order. How long the order remains is quite another question.

Meetings of the National and American leagues yesterday led to the adoption of a two-divisional split of the NL's 12 teams in 1969 and agreement by the AL to increase its schedule from the previously agreed 156 games to 162.

That means both leagues will operate with two six-team divisions with a best-of-5 playoff between division champions determining the World Series opponents.

Originally, the Nationals, who move into Montreal and San Diego next year, had voted to stay with a single 12-team league playing 162 games next year. Meanwhile, the Americans, adding Kansas City and Seattle, agreed to two divisions of six and 156-game schedule.

Commissioner William D. Eckert and baseball's executive council, recognizing the chaos two separate systems could create in the sport, urged the Nationals to reconsider. They agreed to split providing the Americans would revert to the 162-game schedule.

The AL went along and the Nationals announced the following divisions for 1969:

New York	San Francisco
Montreal	Los Angeles
Philadelphia	San Diego
Pittsburgh	Houston
Chicago	Cincinnati
St. Louis	Atlanta

Earlier, the Americans had split this way:

Minnesota	Cleveland
Chicago	New York
Oakland	Detroit
Kansas City	Baltimore
Seattle	Boston
California	Washington

The plan calls for teams in the same division to play each other 18 times—nine at home and nine away while meeting clubs in the other division 12 times—six at home and six on the road.

Naturally, this eliminates choice attractions for certain clubs and it was this problem that caused the most trouble yesterday.

The Mets, for example, were hesitant to surrender three home games against both Los Angeles and San Francisco because of the drawing power the Dodgers and Giants have in New York.

"We voted again and again until we broke the log jam," said Warren Giles, president of the National League, who presided at the day-long meeting.

Once the Nationals reached their decision, they presented it to the AL at a joint session that lasted scarcely five minutes. Now baseball was ready to present its united front.

"This is a great step forward," said Commissioner Eckert, "showing cooperation and uniformity."

But wait a minute. Here was Chicago White Sox owner Arthur Allyn, cooling his heels outside the press conference, preparing a little bombshell of his own.

"The White Sox," said Allyn "are unhappy both with the American League divisional arrangement and the decision to return to 162 games. We will appeal to the Commissioner."

Allyn said the Sox did not want to give up traditional rivalries with the New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers.

He indicated that a better divisional setup could be found, calling the NL plan which combined four established teams with one 1969 expansion team and one 1962 expansion team "far superior."

Then there are the players to worry about.

The executive board of the Major League Players Association adopted a resolution Tuesday suggesting the return to "the more normal and manageable season that prevailed before the 1961 expansion." Prior to expansion, teams played 154-game schedules.

"Although the American League's proposal of a 156-game schedule is not ideal," the resolution continued, "it is clearly superior to any plan which contemplates an increase in the number of games to be played."

It remains to be seen what the players will do about yesterday's action.

Tension Hits NFL, All-Star Game Threatened

Orioles Dump Hank Bauer, Weaver Is Named Manager

BALTIMORE (AP) — Earl Weaver, minor league player and manager throughout his baseball career, was named today to replace Hank Bauer as manager of the Baltimore Orioles.

Selection of the 38-year-old Weaver, who was brought up as a manager from Rochester to be a coach this season, was announced at a news conference the day after Bauer was summarily dismissed.

Bauer had been voted best manager of the year twice in his four full seasons at the helm of the Orioles. The second time was after the Orioles won their first American League pennant in 1966 and beat the Los Angeles Dodgers four straight in the World Series.

Weaver was one of three new coaches named by the Orioles last season when the team finished sixth.

"I'm extremely sorry that it was necessary in our judgment to let Hank go at this time," said Harry Dalton, Oriole director of player personnel.

"However, I think we are extremely fortunate to have someone of Earl Weaver's caliber to step into a tough spot. He has proven time and time again that he is an outstanding manager and handler of players, and I have every confidence that he will be a very successful big league manager."

The Orioles currently are in third place with a 43-37 record, but trail leading Detroit by 10½ games.

Bauer, twice voted Manager of the Year by The Associated Press, was informed of his discharge in Kansas during the All-Star break Harry Dalton, Oriole director of player personnel, carried the news.

"Hank Bauer has been relieved of his duties as manager of the Orioles," read the announcement issued in Baltimore. "Dalton also announced that Bauer's contract would be honored through the 1968 season."

Dalton added that Bauer would be paid the balance of his contract for $50,000 a year which had been due to expire at the end of the season.

"It wasn't much of a surprise," said the 46-year-old Bauer. "Somebody had to take the blame and I'm the guy. Our pitching has been good, but the hitting has been bad."

Last season, the troubles were reversed with the pitching falling off since the Orioles swept four straight games from the Los Angeles Dodgers in the 1966 World Series.

The Oriole team batting average currently is .218.

"You have to expect things like this in baseball," Bauer said of his firing. "The Orioles have treated me fine. I feel no bitterness."

He said he does not expect to look for another baseball job this season.

Bauer played 11 seasons as an outfielder with the New York Yankees in a span when they appeared in nine World Series. He was traded to Kansas City in 1959 and became its manager in 1961.

Bauer moved to Baltimore as a coach in 1963 and next year was named its manager. The Orioles finished third twice before scaling the heights of baseball in 1966.

Bauer is the third manager to be fired in the majors this season. The first was Gene Mauch, replaced at Philadelphia by Bob Skinner. The second was Grady Hatton, whose Houston post was given to Harry Walker.

Lombardi Orders Starr Out Of Training Camp

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The possibility that the College All-Star Game in Chicago Aug. 2 may become an early casualty of the hassle between National Football League owners and players was a step nearer reality today.

Vince Lombardi, general manager of Green Bay's champions, followed an order handed down by the owners earlier this week and politely ejected start quarterback Bart Starr and 10 other veteran from the Packers' training camp yesterday

Even if a settlement is reached in the dispute that threatens a suspension of NFL activity for the 1968 season — and there were no indications of this — it may not come in time to save the All-Star match.

Lombardi has insisted he won't send the Packers against the collegians in the game just a little more than three weeks away unless he can field a well-conditioned and representative team.

Starr & Co. weren't the only ones with rejection complexes. Quarterback Roman Gabriel and Pat Studstill, former Detroit Lion, were told to leave when they tried to check in with 13 rookies at the Los Angeles Rams' camp at Fullerton, Calif.

And Dallas Cowboy vets reportedly planned to set up their own training camp at Thousand Oaks, Calif., in an effort to get around the owners' decision that all veterans will be barred from regular training sessions until the controversy is settled.

There's Too Much At Stake

Dave Manders, player representative of the Cowboys, was quoted as saying the oldtimers had decided to hold their own camp, minus coaches, because "There's too much at stake. We're going for the title."

Meanwhile, things were rosy in the American Football League, where players and owners announced agreement yesterday on a new two-year contract providing increases in player pensions, insurance and in exhibition game pay.

Jack Kemp, of Buffalo, president of the AFL Players Association, termed the contract historic and a "tremendous step forward."

Under the new pact, a five-year player at age 65 would receive $629 a month instead of $500, a 10-year player would get $1,132 instead of $775 and a 15-year man would receive $1,497 instead of $990.

Exhibition game pay was boosted from $100 per game for each player to $125 for a two-year man, $150 for third and fourth-year players and $250 for a player with five or more years in the league.

Medical coverage for each active player in the league was increased from $15,000 to $50,000.

The situation was just the opposite in the senior league.

Reports that the NFL owners were planning further negotiations with the players were quickly dismissed by NFL President Art Modell, also president of the Cleveland Browns.

"There are no further negotiations contemplated at the moment," Modell said in Chicago. "They have broken off. Most of the owners have left for their respective homes."

Another Vote By Players?

There also was a report that the players planned another vote on the matter. But Dave Manders, player representative of the Dallas Cowboys, reported Detroit's John Gordy, president of the NFL Players Association, said no further polls would be taken until the owners come up with a better offer.

The players are demanding $100,000 from each of the 16 NFL teams for their pension fund. The owners have offered a 25 per cent increase this year and 50 per cent next year with the provision that additional gains established in 1970 would be applied to players who end their careers this year or next.

The owners have contended they can't afford to meet the players demands.

Starr and the other veterans were told to leave by Lombardi after they had started loosenin a few muscles.

Lombardi said he was "very unhappy about this. I didn't put 30 years into this business to come to this, but I always have hope."

He said while the owners were united in their stand and he didn't know of anything else that could be done, "I don't think anything is ever final."

"Yes, I have feelings about this," said Starr. "But I'd rather not say anything."

Packer rookies were given physicals yesterday and were scheduled to begin working out today. The Detroit rookies also start work today.

Some 50 rookies were on hand for the San Francisco 49ers first day of camp at Goleta, Calif., and a similar number reported to the Cowboys' camp. Forth rookies reported to the New Orleans Saints' camp at San Diego.

Cleveland and Pittsburgh won't get started until tomorrow. St. Louis and Atlanta start Saturday, Baltimore and Philadelphia Sunday and New York on Monday.

Wetoska Sees Confused Vote

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Wetoska, veteran offensive tackle of the Chicago Bears, told the Chicago Tribune last night that he expects the National Football League Players Association to take another vote within a day or two.

"The owners have given us more, much more, than I ever thought they would," the newspaper quoted Wetoska, who is one of the sub player representatives of the Baars. "How can the owners give us guarantees for three years from now when they don't know what their income will be?

"I think the owners have forced the association's hand by locking up their camps. The lockout of such players as Bart Starr in Green Bay shows the owners do mean business. Some of the players will have to start taking them seriously now."

MAIL LATE

Wetoska told the Tribune if another strike vote is taken by the association, the players should be kept better informed.

"They sent out a white paper from player headquarters in New York which detailed our grievances and told what we were to vote on," Wetoska said. "The only trouble is that it arrived in the mail two days after the vote was taken.

"I don't mean that the players didn't have a general understanding of what it was all about. But when somebody calls you up at 5:30 in the morning and wants you to vote on something, you're bound to be a little fuzzy-headed about it.

CONFUSION

"That's what happened to me. Butkus (Dick Butkus, Bears' player representative) called me at 5:30. He said we were supposed to vote on three major issues—minimum salary, preseason game pay and a pension increase. But in the statement I received two days later, there were 21 grievances listed."

Wetoska said his duty was to rouse eight other Bears from bed by telephone and get their votes on a possible strike.

"This is the way it worked all over the country," he told the Tribune. "So you can see that when 16 ball clubs are concerned and there are 80 or so guys making phone calls in the middle of the night, there could be some miscommunication."

Defensive end Ed O'Bradovich sharply disagreed with Wetoska.

"...We have a strong and good union and unless we want to lose all of the respect of the owners, we have to stand fast on our demands," he told the Tribune.

"There"s a lot of gossip being spread by the owners that we're beginning to weaken. That's strictly wishful thinking on their part. They will have to come up with a substantial offer and then we will take another poll of the players."

Nolan Trying To Create Rookie Team

SANTA BARBARA, (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers' new head coach, Dick Nolan, now knows who the fastest sprinters and milers are in his rookie camp. Soon, he may have to get down to making a football team out of rookies.

The 49ers held their first rookie workout yesterday. With a player strike threatening to keep veterans from reporting, the possibility exists that Nolan and all the other National Football League coaches may have to go solely with rookies.

In the morning workout, all 50 rookies in camp ran a mile with linebacker Tom Hart of Morris Brown and guard Richard Decker of George Weshington each doing a creditable 4:34.

In the afternoon, 40-yard wind sprints were held and Tommie Gray, a Maryland State running back, was the fastest with a 4.5-second clocking.

After the morning session, the first-round draft choice, center Forrest Blue of Auburn, left for the college All-Star training camp in Chicago.

The 49ers beefed up their rookie quarterback corps by admitting Bob Toledo of San Francisco State, Troy Winslow of Southern California and Joe Stetcer of Chico State to the camp in case the veterans don't report.

Running back Laurie Green of Southern University and Nebraska was another late addition to the roster.

Kicking-Rich Raiders Hire Foot Specialist

SANTA ROSA, (AP) — The Oakland Raiders' George Blanda won the American Football League scoring championship with his toe last season.

The Raiders' Mike Eischeid was the AFL's second best punter, averaging 44.3 yards to 44.9 by Denver's Bob Scarpitto.

So, to open their training camp yesterday the Raiders introduced a new coach, kicking specialist Louis Engleburg from Florida State.

"He worked wonders there," said head Coach John Rauch, who guided the Raiders to the AFL championship and was named Coach of the Year.

Blanda scored 116 points with 55 touchdown conversions and 20 field goals. Eischeid's longest punt was 62 yards.

BRITISH OPEN

Casper's 68 Equals Record

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Bill Casper equalled the Carnoustie course record with a four-under-par 68 today and grabbed the second round lead in the British Open Golf Championship with a 36-hole score of 140.

Closest to Casper with half of the 130-man field still on the course was Bob Charles of New Zealand, who shot his second straight 772 for 144—four strokes behind.

Arnold Palmer, meanwhile, staged one of his characteristic rallies with a one-under-par 71 which vaulted him back into contention at 148.

Casper, leading money winner on the rich U.S. pro tour, tore up the front nine with a four-under-par 32 and then held his own on the treacherous finishing holes.

His 68 tied the course record set by Ben Hogan in winning the Open here in 1953.

Gary Player of South Africa and little known Paddy Skerritt of Ireland were tied at 145.

Bill Casper, the leading money winner of the American tour, who opened with a 72, and favorite Jack Nicklaus, who had a first round 76, were among the late starters over the 7,252-yard, par 71 Carnoustie course, rated the longest and toughest in all Britain.

Casper carved out a four-under-par 32 over the outgoing nine and appeared headed for the halfway lead.

Mike Bonallack, British amateur titleholder who shared the first round lead with little-known Barnes with 70, skied to a 77 which placed him back at 147.

"I just couldn't get anything together, I played badly," Bonallack said.

Bonallack played with Doug Sanders, the dapper American pro from Ojai, Calif., who three-putted four greens and finished with a 76 for 154.

Sanders was in danger of missing the cutoff after the second round when the field of 130 will be cut to the low 75 shooters and ties. Observers said the cutoff point would be around 153.

Bert Yancy, the former West Pointer from Tallahassee, Fla., also was in danger of not making the cut. Yancey shot 75 for a two-day total of 153.

Palmer with the big part of the gallery had one of his best rounds.

He sank a 12-foot putts for a birdie at the fifth hole and put his ball four feet from the pin for another at the sixth. On the long finishing hole, he hit a tremendous No. 1 iron to the front of the green and chipped up for an easy birdie four.

"It was the best ball I've hit in a long time," Palmer said.

Other scores included Maurive Bembridge, England, 71-75—146; Brian Huggett, Wales, 76-71—147; Peter Thomson, Australia, 77-71—148; Miguel Sebastian, Spain, 73-75—148; Kel Nagle, Australia, 74-75—149, and Bruce Devlin, Australia, 77-73—150.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

By Associated Press

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Eugene Parker, 139, San Jose, Calif., stopped Billy Coleman, 141, Los Angeles, 6.

Meanwhile, AFL Gets Settlement, Quietly

NEW YORK (AP) — After weeks of near-secret negotiations, and nary a threat of a strike, American Football League players have a new two-year contract today.

The agreement, calling for increased pensions, pre-season pay and medical benefits, was hammered out in privacy while attention was focused on the dispute between National Football League players and owners that threatens to shut down the senior loop this season.

"We've been quiet purposely," said Buffalo's Jack Kemp, president of the AFL's Players Association. "When you make definitive and extravagant statements, you lose your flexibility."

The contract calls for a 50 per cent in contributions by the clubs to the league's retirement fund. Under the setup, a five-year player at age 65 would receive $689 a month instead of $500, a 10-year player will get $1,132 instead of $775 and a 15-year man will receive $1,497 instead of $990.

The 10 teams in the league will contribute a total of $1,028,000 each year — an increase of $605,000 for the two years.

Medical coverage for each active player and each member of his family will be increased from $15,000 to $50,000.

Potential No Hitter Makes Scoring Rough

Baseball is a small island of activity in a great sea of statistics. Perhaps an official scorer so described the game after making a late inning ruling on a close play in a potential no-hitter.

Regardless of whether hit or error is called the scorer is not going to please everybody. Indeed, scorers come to expect boos but seldom are upset by them. Their only objective is to get the decision right.

Recently in Candlestick Park Don Drysdale had the Giants hung up on a no-hitter going into the eighth inning. Jack Hiatt drew a leadoff walk in the eighth and then Bobby Bonds tapped a pretty bunt to the third base side of the mond.

Drysdale fielded the ball smartly but his throw pulled Wes Parker off first base where the speedy Giant rookie was safe. Was it a hit or error? The official scorer charged Drysdale with a throwing error.

"The four writers traveling with the Dodgers thought Bonds should have been credited with a single, no-hitter or not," wrote George Lederer of the Long Beach Independent, dean of Dodger baseball reporters who has been traveling with the team since its arrival in Los Angeles from Brooklyn a decade ago.

"OPINION IN the press box and in the locker rooms was divided. Drysdale said he made a bad throw, that a good one would have saved him a lot of trouble. Parker asked: 'What else could you call it ?A good throw has him.'

"Walter Alston rode the fence, saying: 'It would have been close. Under the circumstances, I agreed with the call.'

"Herman Franks, genial manager of the Giants, said: 'Circumstances be damned. If a no-hitter isn't involved, they give him a hit. So why keep that in mind. It was a hit."

The teapot tempest subsided when Dave Marshall, later in the eighth inning, punched a single to center and, in the ninth inning, Jim Ray Hart lined a single to left.

THUS, THE OFFICIAL scorer never was interviewed by his fellow baseball writers because the entire affair now was just a statistic. I often wonder what it would be like to be interviewed on such momentous decisions.

Ten years ago in the Los Angeles Coliseum an official scorer named Charlie Parks found out. Sam Jones had the Dodgers hung up on a no-hitter with two out in the eighth inning. Jim Gilliam chopped a slow bouncer past the mound.

Andy Rogers, then shortstop of the Giants, charged it and caught up with it back of the mound where he twice fumbled it. Would Gilliam have beaten it out without the fumbles? Parks thought so and called it a hit.

A Coliseum crowd of 59,312 gave Parks a terrible booing. It was the only hit off Jones. The next day Parks started his story:

"Ma, I did it."

Cornell Downs Harvard

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (AP) — The Cornell lightweight crew defeated Harvard University by 2 1-3 lengths in a race watched by Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, at Henley Royal Regatta today.

Battling through choppy water on the rain-swollen River Thames, defending champion Cornell came from behind to defeat its old rival in seven minutes and 24 seconds in a second-round heat of the Thames Cup for eights.

The bigger Cornell crew, which averaged 169 pounds to Harvard's 164, was behind at the start.

The speedy Harvard crew led by a half-length at the 700-yard mark on the 1 mile, 550-yard course.

The stronger Cornell squad caught Crimson and the boats were almost even at the halfway mark.

SPURT AHEAD

Then Cornell, striking 37 to Harcard's 38, spurted ahead and took over the lead by a half-length margin.

The Cornell crew dropped its rate to 36 but held on to the half-length lead and opened the gap to one length at the three-quarter mile mark.

In bitterly cold conditions and with a swirling wind, the crews battled up the course with Harvard spurting in a vain effort to catch the powerful Cornell crew.

Cornell pulled steadily away and led by 1¾ lengths at the mile mark, striking 31 to Harvard's 34.

DECISIVE TEST

Cornell held off another Harvard spurt to win comfortably by 2 1-3 lengths.

Both crews considered the encounter a decisive one as the score stood at 1-1 between them in races over the last two months.

The U.S. crews were drawn together in their first race of the regatta after getting first-round byes.

Cornell now meets the winner of the race between England's Liverpool Victoria Rowing Club and the Quintin Boat Club in the quarter-finals tomorrow.

Prince Philip landed in his red helicopter in a field near the Henley course and followed the race from a launch behind the two crews.

A large crowd turned out to watch the race between the American crews despite the cold conditions.

Overnight rain had caused the river to rise nine inches, causing some flooding.

Duke Quarterback Cut For Cheating

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Duke University's football fortunes this year will ride on the abilities of three untested rising sophomores at quarterback now that senior Al Woodall has been suspended for cheating.

Woodall, a 6-foot-5, 200-pounder from Erwin, N.C., was convicted of allowing a coed to write a term paper for him—a charge he denied. He was to captain this year's Blue Devil team.

Duke Coach Tom Harp expressed regret at losing Woodall.

"During spring practice our basic offense was built around his ability to throw the ball, Harp said. "His loss dealt us a very severe blow at the most important position, but we will make the necessary adjustments."

Woodall announced his suspension yesterday. He said he was given a "raw deal" from the faculty-student hearing board that considered his case through two appeals and had decided to play this fall with the semipro Richmond Roadrunners of the Atlantic Coast Football League, a farm of the New Orleans Saints of the National Football League.

Thirteen Duke students have been suspended and a few others have appealed convictions as a result of the cheating investigation.

The Charlotte Observer said that at least eight Duke football players were among those suspended. It named only Woodall and halfback Pete Schafer, but said four would have been starters in the fall.

A Duke spokesman, stressing that university policy was not to announce names of students involved in such cases, said that all eight had not been suspended, but that disciplinary action was pending against some. Woodall announced his suspension.

The following brief statement was released Wednesday night by Eddie Cameron, Duke athletic director:

"In cases of this kind Duke has a traditional procedure of fair hearings and the right to appeal. I am sure the procedure has been followed carefully and that all students involved have had fair treatment."

Woodall said he will finish work on his degree at a Richmond area school. He is working this summer as a playground instructor in Concord, N.C.

Speaking of his case, Woodall asserted, "I was charged with allowing a coed (tutor) to write a paper in education for me, which I denied. It was the girl's word against mine and they believed her in the hearing.

"I appealed twice and was turned down. The last appeal was turned down last yesterday. I repeat: I was given a raw deal."

The investigation at Duke has been in progress for several weeks. The university is releasing little information about the matter, but it reportedly began when one athlete's girl friend reported him for allowing her to write his term paper.

Peter Schafer Sr. of Ramsey, N.J., has acknowledged that his son, tailbuck Pete Schafer, has been suspended until the fall of 1969 as a result of the investigation.

Giants Go After First Win In Week

CINCINNATI (AP) — The San Francisco Giants go after their first victory in a week here tonight when they face the Reds.

The Giants, who lost three straight games to the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals before the three-day break for the All-Star Game, are expected to send Ray Sadecki, 8-10, against right-hander George Culver, 6-8.

The Giants, 11½ games back of the Cards and in fourth place, are currently right at .500 mark with a 42-42 record.

Besides losing the three-game series to the Cardinals, seriously damaging whatever remaining pennant chances they might have had, the Giants won only four of 17 games in their last home stand.

And the trip that starts today doesn't figure to be much easier. After playing the second-place Braves, the Giants go on to play two games with Atlanta, currently in third place, and then go to St. Louis for three more games with the Cardinals.

Injury Forces Grier To Talk Of Retiring

SEATTLE (UPI)—Roosevelt Grier, one of pro football's all-time star defensive tackles, is giving serious consideration these days to quitting the game.

The reason?

An aching achilles tendon which is not responding to treatment.

"I just don't see how I could play with the foot hurting," Grier said yesterday while in Seattle to plug his latest record. Grier already has cut one album and several single records and would devote all his time to the entertainment field if he should quit.

Grier had the foot operated on after the end of the 1967 season when he and the other three members of the Los Angeles "front four" almost led the Rams to the National Football League title.

"It hasn't come around like I thought it would," said Grier. "If it doesn't get any better I might just as well quit and go in another direction."

Grier played his collegiate ball at Penn State, then moved into the pro ranks with the New York Giants, blossoming into a star performer almost from the start. He helped the Giants win four NFL Eastern Division titles and two NFL championships before being traded to the Rams five years ago.

Eager Fans Receive Publinks Surprise

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — An eager gallery followed defending champ Vern Callison through the first round of the National Public Links Golf Tournament hoping to see a pace-setting performance, and they did—but it was Callison's playing mate Don Maddox who set the pace.

Maddox, 24, a computer operator from Wichita, Kan., finished with a 71 yesterday to push himself into a three-way tie with Les Mattocks, Greeley, Colo., and Tom Evans of Dallas for the first round lead.

The three front-runners were one over par over the tricky par 70, 6,578-yard Tenison East Course, which had its rough trimmed to three inches prior to the tournament because United States Golf Association officials felt the course was unfair.

Paul Langager, 23, former quarterback at the University of Utah, fired a two-over par 72 for fourth place.

Robert Unger, Milwaukee, Wis., and George Yamamoto of Anahola, Kauai, Hawaii, each finished at 73 in a tie for fifth place.

The Dallas team of Evans, Gene Towry and Arnold Salinas, combined their scores to take an eight shot lead over Memphis, Tenn., in the team competition.

Dallas had a 219 total to Memphis' 227 in the 36 hole team event.

Dallas holds the national record for the lowest Publinks team score. In 1959, a team led by Towry shot a 425 total at Denver, Colo.

The field will be cut after posting of today's 36-hole result and most of the 150-man field predicted it would take as much as a 7-over-par 287 to win the title.

Killebrew Out Until September

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota Twins learned yesterday that slugger Harmon Killebrew suffered a torn muscle in Tuesday's baseball All-Star game and will be lost for six to eight weeks.

The assessment of Killebrew's injury and the period of his disability came from Dr. Harvey O'Phalen, a club physician who examined Killebrew yesterday afternoon here.

"His disability is relatively severe," O'Phalen said. "He will be unable to play for six to eight weeks."

O'Phalen described Killebrew's injury as a partial rupture of the medial hamstring muscle.

The doctor said treatments will begin on Killebrew later this week.

UNTIL SEPTEMBER

The Twins said Killebrew is being placed on the disabled list immediately. He must remain on the list at least 21 days, but severity of the injury gave strong indication that Killebrew would not be able to return to the Twins' lineup until September at the earliest.

Manager Cal Ermer said yesterday that Rich Reese would replace Killebrew at first base for the Twins.

The Twins trail Detroit by 15 games, and the loss of Killebrew is a critical blow to their hopes of recovering from a poor first half.

CARRIED FROM FIELD

Killebrew injured his left leg stretching for a low throw in the third inning of the All-Star game. He was carried from the field on a stretcher.

Killebrew was hitting .204 with 13 home runs this season. Nevertheless, American League players voted him to the All-Star team at first base.

It was the eighth year Killebrew was named to the American League team.

A's Stand Up Against A.L. Best At Home

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Athletics, having f none too well recently, begin a home stand tonight against three of the top four teams in the league.

The Athletics will send John "Blue Moon" Odom, 6-6, who pitched two scoreless innings in the All-Star Game, against the Cleveland Indians' Sonny Siebert, 9-5.

The Athletics have lost nine of their last 10 games while falling to a tie for sixth place with the California Angels.

The Indians, in second place, will be followed by the fourth-place Boston Red Sox and the league-leading Detroit Tigers.

Though the team batting average is only .247, Oakland hit .305 in their last homestand and Oakland pitchers have a fine 1.86 earned-run average in the Coliseum.

Brazil Santos Soccer Club In First Loss

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Stokers scored a goal with less than eight minutes left to defeat Santos of Brazil 2-1 last night, the first loss in eight games on a current American tour for the Brazilians and their superstar, Pele.

The game ended in an argument when Santos scored what would have been the tying goal with 1:12 left. The Linesman said a Santos player was offside.

Dietrich Albrecht of Cleveland booted in the winner at 37:20.

Enrique Mateos gave the Stokers a 1-0 halftime lead with a 12-yard penalty kick at 26:30.

Watson Captures Qualifying Honor

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Missouri state champion Tom Watson of Kansas City fired an even par 71 yesterday to win the qualifying medal in the 65th annual Trans-Mississippi Amateur Golf Tournament at the Southern Hills Country Club.

The 19-year-old Stanford Univerisity sophomore scored a 72 in the first qualifying round Tuesday, giving him a 36-hole total of 143—just one stroke over Tom Kite, 18-year-old University of Texas golfer from Austin, who scored successive 72s.

The 62 qualifiers will join defending champion Hal Underwood of Houston and NCAA champion Grier Jones of Oklahoma State University for the first round of match play today. The title will be decided Sunday.

NCAA Change In Cage Regionals Worked Out

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A change in the format for the regionals and finals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament was the chief major change that emerged from meetings which concluded yesterday.

Under the new plan, games in both the regional and final tournaments will be held Thursday nights and Saturday afternoons. The decision was reached at the concluding session of the joint meeting of the NCAA Basketball Tournament Committee and the National Association of Basketball Coaches Executive Committee.

Tournament chairman Bebe Lee of Kansas State explained the reason for the change from Friday and Saturday nights was to avoid conflicts with state high school basketball tournaments. He said the change also will give coaches an extra day to prepare for the final game.

The Big Annex–Novato Wins, 20-3

Novato's Annex Motors breezed to a 20-3 victory over the Presidio Toros last night in Marin County Joe Dimaggio League play.

Elsewhere, Mill Valley blanked the Van Ness Dodge team 5-0 behind Mark Saterly's five-hit, six-strikeout pitching and Mike Locati's two-run homer and Redwood edged Drake, 4-3.

Alto School Takes Title

Alto School's team captured the boys' softball championship in the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department's annual tournament day last week, routing Homestead School in the final game 14-1.

Alto had reached the finals by blanking Boyle Park 5-0. Homestead had rocked Old Mill 15-8.

Homestead won the girls' kickball title by smashing Old Mill 42-3.

Objection Dropped Against Turf

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — The University of Georgia has decided to drop its objections to the artificial turf installed by Tennessee and go ahead with the nationally televised football game against the Volunteers at Knoxville Sept. 14.

Athletic Director Joel Eaves and Coach Vince Dooley issued a statement yesterday, saying, "We will play the game as scheduled, despite the synthetic turf and despite the fact that Tennessee will have the added advantage of exposure to it."

Tennessee plans to have the artificial turf installed this summer. And Volunteer officials contend it will cut down on injuries and provide good footing in all kinds of weather.

Eaves had contended that Georgia's contract called for a game on grass, and he had threatened at one time to make a legal issue of the dispute. Installation of artificial grass should have been discussed at the Southeastern Conference's spring meeting, Eaves said.

However, in the statement by Eaves and Dooley, they siid, "We do not desire a legal controversy between the two institutions, and have decided not to pursue the matter further."

Trainer Comiskey Is Suspended In Drug Case

INGLEWOOD, (AP)—Charles Comiskey, widely known thoroughbred trainer, was suspended yesterday by Hollywood Park officials after they received a report that one of Comiskey's horses may have been drugged before a race.

The action by the track's board of stewards was based on a report by Truesdail Testing Laboratories, Inc. In a urine test of Bel Bush following his victory in the sixth race July 6, the laboratory said it found the analgesic drug butazolidin, prohibited at the track.

Bel Bush, a 3-year-old gelding, was disqualified and the purse money ordered returned and redivided among the second, third, fourth and fifth horses.

It was the second suspension of the year for Comiskey, who sat out 30 days early in the year at Santa Anita Race Track when a similar test on Lonesome Boy also showed a prohibited analgesic. Both Linesome Boy and Bel Bush are owned by the Vicgray Farm.

A's Hunter Tumbles Since Perfect Game

OAKLAND—The young fellow they call "Fish" has become a man in a wildly flailing net. On one glorious twilight in May, he was king of the baseball sea. And now, metaphor fans, he's got garbled gills.

James Augustus (Catfish) Hunter, 23, became, on the evening of May 8, the first American League pitcher in four-plus decades to hurl a perfect game in regular season play. Obviously, there was nowhere for the Oakland Athletic pitcher to go from there but down.

But this far down is ridiculous.

Fish (he caught them as a boy, thus the sobriquet) has become in two months' time: (1) Mr. Gopher Ball; (2) as wild as a jumping bean in heat, and (3) a losing pitcher with the worst earned run average among all Oakland starters.

Control, not a big head, is Hunter's problem. It can't be money, for Charlie Finley handed Fish a bonus of several grand in a ritual of mawkish glorification on the mound a few days after the perfect performance.

No, control is the woe.

WHEN SOME pitchers are unable to find the plate they are wild one way or another — high, low, inside, outside. Fish is indiscriminate in his errancy. He misses all over the place.

And it's not that he's giving up that many walks. What happens with Hunter is that, for fear of walking a fellow, he starts grooving his pitches. Fans in the bleachers are deeply appreciative of the souvenir baseballs this conduct affords them.

In a dozen appearances since the May 8 perfection, Hunter has been bombed for 14 home runs. In the three starts right after his big game, the Fish gave up eight round-tripperes. And since that memorable game, he has won three while losing five.

Hunter's record through the All Star break was 6-7 — with an earned run average bordering on 4.00. Among all A's pitchers, only newcomer Ken Sanders had a worse ERA. The way the A's score runs, none of their pitchers can give up more than two or three runs a game and hope to win, which does not bode well for the Fish.

"He never knows where it's going," says another member of the Oakland hierarchy. "Last year he was the best control pitcher on the club. You always knew that when Fish started a game, it would move along fast. He was throwing strikes and working quickly. He had a good rhythm going, with good control."

Furthermore, advises this Hunter watcher, Jim has lost a great deal of speed on his fast ball. He's not striking out batters with any of his previous proficiency. In his last four starts, for instance, Jim has walked eight and fanned a dozen. Usually, his walk to strikeout ratio is at least 1 to 2.

Last season, when Hunter was 13-17 (with a 2.80 ERA) with a slovenly last place ball club, Jim walked 84 while striking out 196. Both figures were his highest in three seasons, and he led the staff last year in strikeouts, shutouts, complete games and innings pitched.

All in all, a logical bulwark of the staff, one would think.

NOW, THE BULWARK'S imperiled. Kennedy doesn't say he'll pull Fish from the starting rotation. "No point in doing that," says the manager. "He's going to have to work it out himself."

Hunter is physically fit — no arm trouble or anything like that. He's still a pleasant young man — no visions of immediate Hall of Fame enshrinement or anything like that.

But, meanwhile, for Jim Hunter the worse it gets, the worse it gets. Fishing would be more fun.

Tired Mantle Could Retire

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— Unless the situation changes "drastically" for Mickey Mantle, he will retire at the end of the 1968 baseball season, the New York Yankee slugger said last night.

In San Antonio for the opening of the first in what will be a chain of Mickey Mantle restaurants, he said this year's baseball season has tired him out.

"Last year I flew from Dallas to the All Star game for three swings," Mantle told a press conference at the new restaurant, "and this year I flew from Dallas to the All Star game in Houston for three more.

"I went up to bat in the All Star game already feeling defeated," the 37-year-old center fielder said.

Asked whether he might take up coaching or managing after he retires, Mantle said he did not think so. That, he said, would be "the same as playing baseball," preventing him from being with his family in Dallas.

Mystery Of Wonderful Tomales Salmon Runs Is Explained!

STEVENS

Ralph Santos of the East Bay called to enthuse over the wonderful runs of salmon in the stretch of water off the mouth of Tomales Bay — "From the whistle to the area off Bird Rock," he said.

"The water is just boiling with salmon, not the lunkers now but plenty of mediums. Tell your readers that the best results have been with herring, for some reason the salmon for for the herring bait, while they don't seem to have any desire for anchovies. Tell them to fish fairly shallow, 15 to 25 feet deep."

I asked Santos if there were facilities for launching a skiff, and if there were boats for rent at Lawson's Landing. He said yes to both questions. He also added that it required only 10 minutes from Lawson's Landing to the area where the fish are.

As Santos remarked some time ago, the main gripe of fishermen in the area mentioned above is the influx of Scuba divers who, spear in hand, are making it tough for the surface anglers. I asked if any salmon have been taken on hardware. He said there had been, and mentioned the Andy Reeker spoon as being

"Cee" Bustillos of the Sportsman's cannery called on Monday to enthuse over the big bass brought to him to be kippered or smoked. The striper weighed an even 52 pounds and was caught by Sid Miller of Oakland, from shore off Pacifica. "Cee" also reported a great many salmon were coming in to be processed.

BOW AND ARROW hunters will have plenty of targets Saturday when the archery season on deer opens. One hunter called to laughingly remark, he would take every opportunity to fire his rifle while he still had time before rifles and shotguns would be banned. Well, perhaps it isn't such a laughing matter.

Which brings to mind a recent letter written by William P. Elser, President of the California Fish and Game Commission. A copy of that letter follows:

"Dear Governor Reagan. Your statement on the need to approach gun legislation in a comprehensive and rational manner reflects accurately the position of the Fish and Game Commission. Our Commission is certainly not opposed to all gun legislation; however, we do object strongly to the proposed laws that would make it more difficult for the California sportsman to engage in those recreational activities for which a firearm is required, while at the same time doing nothing to hinder the criminal element.

"WE URGE, therefore, that any proposed legislation effecting the ownership of firearms be evaluated carefully as to its effect upon the sportsman. We also urge that no law be passed without adequate public debate.

"Your realistic stand on the question of gun control legislation is supported and appreciated by the Commission and by the hundreds of thousands of sportsmen in California who use firearms while participating in recreational activities."

And there you have it.

Journeyman Bledsoe Through In Football

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — Hal Bedsole, a journeyman flanker back and oft-injured former Minnesota Viking, has notified the Los Angeles Rams he is through as a professional football player.

The former University of Southern California pass-catching star was with the Rams of the National Football League last year but was forced to sit out the season with a knee injury. His history of knee injuries was given yesterday as his reason for quitting.

The moon is between its full stage and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1864 American economists claimed war-bred inflation had cut the value of the dollar to 39 cents.

In 1933 all school teachers in Germany were ordered to read Adolf Hitler's "Mein Kampf" to become familiar with the Nazi creed.

In 1952 Gen. Dwight Eisenhower was nominated the Republican presidential candidate with Richard Nixon as his running mate.

In 1955 the U.S. Air Force Academy was dedicated at Lowry Air Force base in Colorado.

A thought for the day: American attorney John Calhoun said, "The surrender of life is nothing to sinking down into acknowledgment of inferiority."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Former Baseball Giant Shows Tricky Pitching Form At Bridge

If you play bridge against Rube Marquard, famous for his pitching with the New York Giants two generations ago, you must expect him to pitch a curve now and then. True to his baseball training, Marquard gives no warning of what he is about to throw.

JACK OPENS

West opened the jack of spades in a recent rubber bridge game in Marquard's Baltimore home. Marquard hopefully put up dummy's queen, but East covered with the king, and Marquard won the trick with the ace.

The great pitcher's next play was a casual ten of clubs. West naively played low, and the ten of clubs slipped through for a successful finesse. "Strike one," Marquard smilingly announced, but it was actually the whole ball game.

Declarer next led the king of clubs and continued with the jack of clubs to dummy's ace. The rest of the clubs were good, and Marquard made his contract with an overtrick.

KEY PLAY

It's instructive to note how causally Marquard made the key play of the ten of clubs at the second trick. If there had been a side entry to dummy he would have cashed the king of clubs first and might then have led the jack. In the actual hand this would have forced West to cover the jack of clubs with the queen.

THREE TRICKS

If declarer then won in dummy he would be able to win only three club tricks, and if declarer failed to win the trick West would defeat the contract with the rest of the spades.

Marquard had led the jack of clubs instead of the ten at the second trick, West would be far more likely to cover with the queen. Actually, an alert expert should play the queen even on South's ten — but not all defenders are experts, and not all experts are alert.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 2-NT (22 to 24 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:

♠—J 10 9 8 5
♥—Q 9 8 3
♦—J 7
♣—Q 6

What do you say?

Answer: Bid three clubs, the Stayman Convention.

This asks partner to show a major suit of four or more cards if he can. You plan to raise three spades or three hearts to game. If partner bids three diamonds, denying a major suit, you will bid three spades to suggest game in spades rather than in no trump.

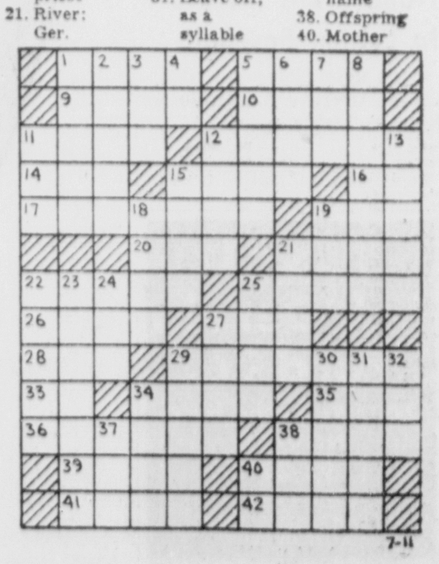
Yesterday's Answer



Men have used artificial devices to keep cool for centuries, the National Geographic Society says. Ancient Egyptians soaked the walls of their homes with water; Roman slaves brought down mountain snow to pack in the hollow outer walls of their masters' villas.

Profit Taking Trims Blue Chip Gains

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed mixed today after late profit taking skimmed a strong advance paced by blue chips.

In the list as a whole, a good margin for gains over losses was cut back. Losers were a little ahead in the final minutes.

Some of the high-multiple glamor stocks were cut back sharply as interest shifted to blue chips.

The market rose from the start, improved its gains until about midday, then backed away from its best level as profits were taken in typical Thursday evening-up operations.

General Motors, up more than 2 points, showed the way for the rallying blue chips as typical "summer rally" psychology prevailed.

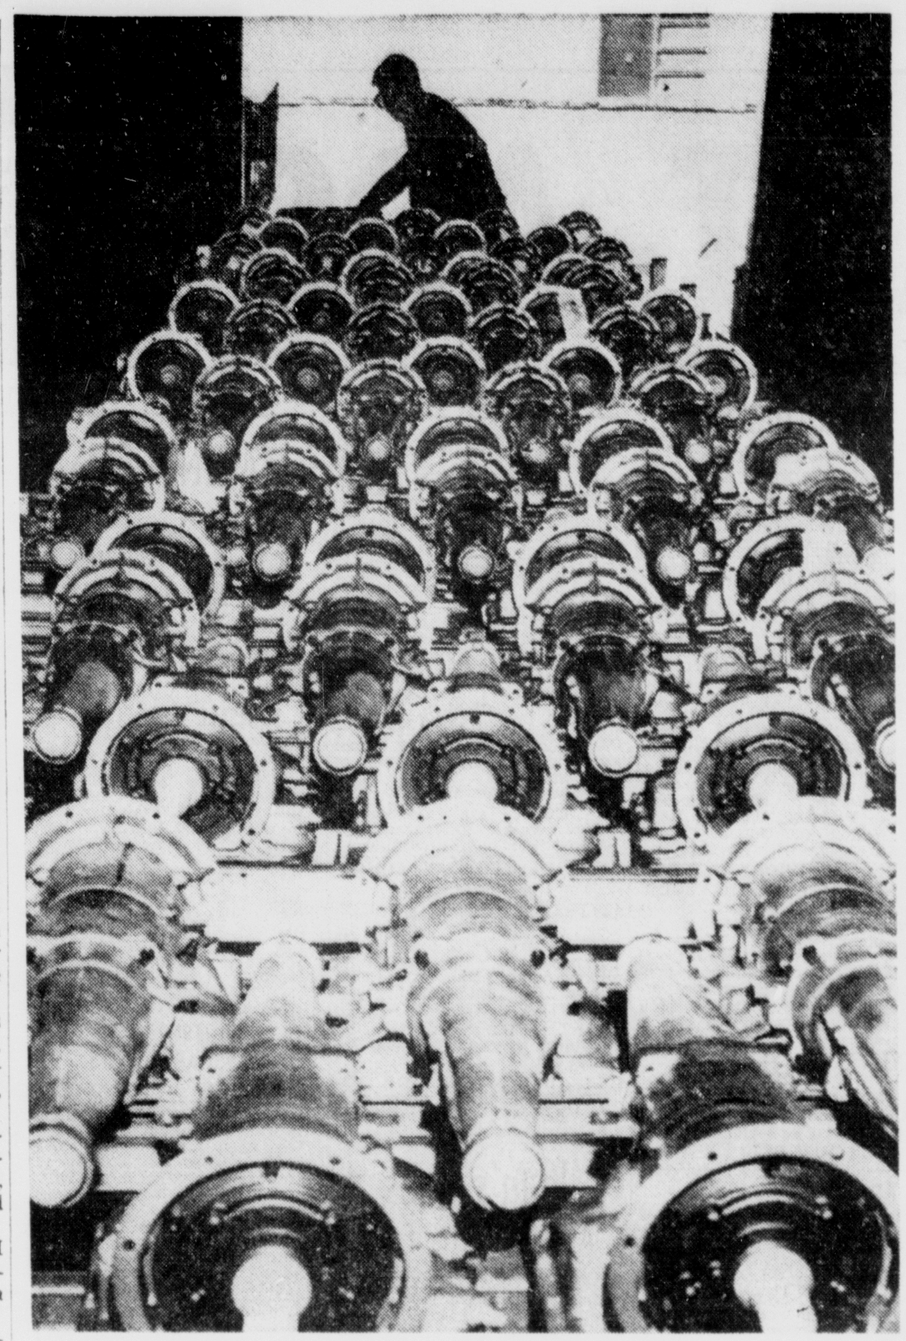
Record first-hour volume of 6.57 million shares was traded as big blocks changed hands, and the tape was late as much as six minutes, reflecting many dealings by smaller investors. By the end of the third hour, the volume was up to 15.730 million shares and seemed headed for one of the best days in exchange history.

Up around 2 or more points were Jones & Laughlin, Ford, Boeing, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Lorillard, Johns-Manville, TWA and Chadbourn-Gotham.

Up a point or so were General Electric, Caterpillar, International Telephone Du Pont, Standard Oil of Indiana and Standard Oil of California.

Xerox dropped 5 points, IBM 4, M-G-M 1, Fansteel 1, American Smelting 2 and Anaconda 1½.

Sperry Rand, a fractional loser, paced the list on volume.



AWAITING SHIPMENT

Air West Seeks More Flights

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Air West is seeking expansion of its service to Mexico.

Already operating jet flights to La Paz, Mazatlan and Puerto Vallarta from central and southern Arizona, the line wants to provide Boeing 727 service from San Francisco to Guadalajara.

Air West's application to the Civil Aeronautics Board said alternate stops would be provided at Mazatlan or La Paz, but not both on the same flight.

Whirlpool Reports Increase In Sales

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (BW)—Whirlpool Corp. has reported sales of 398,907,000 for ported sales of $398,907,000 for the six-month period ended June 30.

This is a 4.1 per cent increase over the $383,224,000 reported for the first half of 1967. Net earnings after adjustment for the surtax were $12,918,000, a 9.3 per cent increase over the $11,816,000 reported for the similar 1967 period.

Mileage Climbs

NEW YORK (BW) — Pan American World Airways flew 1,441 million revenue passenger miles and scheduled services in June, up 20.7 per cent from the 1,194 million flown in the same month last year.

San Francisco Port Tonnage Up In May

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Port tonnage went past the half million ton mark in May, an increase of some 100,000 tons over April.

Port director Rae Watts said the boosts were due to more export shipments, mainly in machinery, farm products and general merchandise.

Portfolio Needs Some Corrections

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Last year I inherited from my aunt shares of American Telephone, National Biscuit, Southern Pacific, Greyhound and Kennecott. My husband is in his early 60s and his retirement pension will not be large. Which stocks should I hold? — T.V.

A. I'm sure your generous legacy will provide a welcome supplement to your husband's modest pension. I have two suggestions that should increase your future worth and add to your peace of mind:

Since a single security — Greyhound — represents three-fifths of the value of your portfolio, I urge you to sell down to 50 shares. This will help to balance your holdings and minimize your risk.

Although recovery is expected in Kennecott's earnings this year, net income will be heavily influenced by fluctuating copper prices. This issue, in my judgment, doesn't offer the stability you need in your situation. The funds realized from sale of Kennecott and Greyhound can be invested in equal-dollar purchases of Texaco and Lorillard.

The latter company has carried its excellent 1967 sales gain into the first quarter of 1968. Although plans for the control of Schenley have been abandoned, other such moves will likely be forthcoming. Texaco, a leader in the worldwide petroleum industry, is the second largest refiner in the United States.

Q. I am widowed and have sold my $50,000 home. I am at a crossroads. Should I buy stocks or a 5-unit rental property? At my age painting, repairing and cleaning up other people's dirt seems silly. I have ample income from other investments. What is your opinion? — J.L.

A. I believe you have rather aptly answered your own question. Because of your sizable holdings of cash, securities and mortgages, I believe that your banker or attorney is the person who can best guide you at this time of decision-making. With your financial and personal data before him he can give you impartial advice on the wisest course to follow.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

New Shoe Store Operating On B Street In San Rafael

New shoe store opened at 936 B Street in downtown San Rafael is called Shoe Tique and is a new project of William Blanton.

Blanton, who formerly managed Don Alden's annex in the Albert Arcade known as D'Alden Shoe Rack, bought the business from Alden, leased larger quarters on B Street through Harry Abras of William Timmer Realty and changed the name. He continues to stock avant garde fashions, mod boots and other modern style footwear.

The sale from Alden to Blanton does not affect the former's main store, D'Alden Shoe Salon, on Fourth Street.

AFTER ABOUT SIX YEARS at 700 Grant Avenue, Novato, Stanley Harmon and James Keith have found a new and larger home for their plastic manufacturing business, Aurora Plastics.

They have leased 3,500 square feet on Mark Drive, Northgate Industrial Park, through Paul Dyer of Dohemann and Co. and hope to be moved within the next 10 days. This will give them about one-third more working space. New address probably will be 18 or 20 Mark Drive.

THERE ARE NEW OWNERS for Terra Linda Variety in the Shopping Center.

Walter and Dorothy Lyons have sold to Ellis and Anita Robinson of San Francisco. Business will continue under the same name.

Lyons and his wife will continue living in Marin.

POLICE CHIEF Frank L. Nelson of Corte Madera, chairman of the Marin County Police Chiefs Association, reports that at this writing there were a few openings left for Dr. George Sugarman's intensive management seminar for police officers starting at 8 a.m. Monday at Tiburon Lodge. The course is said to be closely parallel to but less expensive than the management training course of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Registration should be made with Chief Nelson.

STANLEY T. MOORE of San Rafael, assistant general public relations manager for Southern Pacific Co., will retire July 31 after a 32-year career with the company. A lifetime resident of Marin, he worked as editor of the Sausalito News and as publications editor for Associated Oil Co., before joining Southern Pacific's news bureau in 1936. He has been assistant general public relations manager since 1955.

Bacharach

MEL BACHARACH of San Rafael has been appointed vice president of marketing for Levi Strauss and Co. A director of the company, he formerly served as vice president of merchandising. He joined the company in 1948 as an assistant in the sales department.

P. V. NYLUND of Larkspur has joined Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp. as a public relations representative. He has recently been a reporter with Fairchild Publications, assigned to Metalworking News and Electronic News. Previously he was a copywriter and account executive for Pacific Advertising and has also been associated with the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, as technical editor.

ROBERT F. PHILLIPS of San Rafael has been appointed manager of western region life and disability claims for Fireman's Fund American Insurance Co. A life and disability underwriter for the company since 1962, he started at the southern Pacific area branch at Los Angeles and since 1966 has been in San Francisco.

GEORGE NASLUND of Mill Valley has been elected to membership in the San Francisco chapter of Administrative Management Society. He is administrative manager of Transamerica Insurance Group in San Francisco.

INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY

Here's the story: we've just listed a tiny little house, nicely built but kind of run down, and quite a few years old. It really isn't worth too much, but it could be rented for $100 a month, more or less, or it would make a great hideaway. There are fruit trees, and good sun, and a pleasant outlook. However, the little house is on a prime lot zoned for a duplex, and next door to it is another prime lot zoned the same way, which is included in the low price of only $16,950. Get the picture? Then come see it this weekend!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE P. VAN DELLEN

Autos, Cigarette Smokers Are Major Carbon Monoxide Makers

VAN DELLEN

Automobiles and cigarette smokers are the two major carbon monoxide (CO) producers in America. Exhaust pollutants contain from 1 to 7 per cent, which in certain circumstances, lead to toxic blood levels among those in the vehicle. Exposure is particularly dangerous when the air intake duct is low in the forward part of the hood and in close proximity to the exhaust pipe of the car ahead.

Tunnel engineers also must provide adequate ventilation to avoid poisoning. The hazard increases in tunnels at high altitudes where pressure is lower and oxygen available to the blood via the lungs is decreased. In other words, the individual needs all the oxygen he can get and should not let the CO interfere with the supply.

WHEN THE blood is given a choice between carbon monoxide and oxygen, it invariably selects CO. This has a major drawback, because body tissues need oxygen. Dizziness, headache, and lassitude may ensue when 5 per cent of the oxygen in red cells is replaced by carbon monoxide.

Atmospheric concentrations high enough to do this have been found in garages, on congested highways, and at busy intersections when tarffic is bumper to bumper. At higher concentrations the brain suffers during continuous exposures of 30 minutes to two-and-one-half hours.

HEAVY SMOKERS may have more than 5 per cent CO in their blood. Smoke contains a high content of CO but much of it is exhaled before absorption occurs. On the other hand, CO could presipitate a coronary attack in the person with narrarowed arteries because his heart needs as much oxygen as is can get. The risk is compounded when the smoker goes to high altitudes or is exposed to CO from automoive exhausts.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressd envelop accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

EX-DANCER'S BACK

Miss E. writes: Why do physicians have to little to offer for sacroiliac strain? I'm an ex-dancing teacher because of his condition.

REPLY

Most patients with sacroiliac disorders get well. As with other conditions, there always are a few who do not respond to treatment. Why not be realistic? Blame your occupation instead of the medical profession. Your sacroiiac may not be able to take the strain of dancing. Teach something else or get a more sedentary job.

WIDE NOSTRILS

J. J. writes: I am 15 years old and have very wide nostrils. Will holding them in constantly make them smaller? I would like your opinion concerning plastic surgery when I am older as a way to repair this defect.

REPLY

Holding the nostrils in will not make them shrink. But, in time, your face may fill out so as to make them less conspicuous. Forget plastic surgery for now and wait until you are more mature.

SOUR STOMACH

A. B. writes: There are times when everything I eat gives me a sour stomach. Why do I get these spells?

REPLY

There are numerous causes of indigestion. The majority of sufferers are bothered when they are under stress.

ANEMIA: WHAT IS IT?

Gary writes: What is anemia?

REPLY

It i is a condition in which there is less than the normal number of red cells or concentration of hemoglobin (iron) in the blood.

Russia Frees Two Stanford Students On Smuggle Counts

VIENNA (AP) — Soviet police have released two American students they arrested at the Soviet-Polish border and accused of trying to smuggle old icons and anti-Soviet literature out of the Soviet Union, Stanford University's Austrian affiliate reported today.

A university spokesman said the two young Californians, James Howard Kratzer of Davis and Larry Robert Watson of Northridge, are on their way back to Vienna and are expected to arrive tomorrow.

The U.S. Embassy advised the university of their release, the spokesman said. Both are students at Stanford's Austrian division.

They were arrested at Brest, on the Soviet-Polish border. Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, said Kratzer obtained the anti-Soviet propaganda from the Chinese Embassy in Moscow and the two got the icons from "loafers and renegades" in Moscow. Export of the latter without permission is prohibited, and the youths could have gotten a prison term of as much as 10 years if found guilty.

The U.S. Embassy in Vienna said it was informed that the pair reached Warsaw by car late Wednesday night after being detained by the Soviets for five days.

It was not known in Vienna how the releases were obtained. The U.S. Embassy in Moscow said today it still had no official information on the case.

In Davis, F. H. Kratzer, father of one of the students, said he had been informed by the U.S. State Department that both youths were in good health after their five-day detainment.

He said, "Both Jim's mother and I are very relieved."

Whatever happened about the literature must have been innocent, he said.

"We can easily see how Jim could have picked up something to read," he said. "He's always doing that wherever he goes, even at the state fair, but it wouldn't have been with the intent of doing anything wrong. That boy's just a constant reader."

Watson's family could not be contacted.

A Typewriter Drive Launched

A drive to provide typewriters for a typing class at Edna Maguire School has been started by Mill Valley Citizens Concerned for Education.

Mrs. Betty Weir of the citizen's group said the school has offered typing classes for several years, but did not have enough typewriters. Some pupils had to bring their own portable typewriters from home, she said.

Six typewriters have been donated by an anoymous member of the citizens' group, and at least six more are being sought. Typewriters can be donated through Mrs. Weir, of 6 Meadow Drive, Mill Valley, or through Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. House, 21 Marion Avenue, Mill Valley. Contributions can be sent to Typewriter Fund, Citizens Concerned for Education, Box 321, Mill Valley.

TELEVISION REVIEW

A Weekend Minus All The Comedies?

By DICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — You just don't know what to depend on anymore. I mean, Sonny Liston, whose fight with Cassius Clay was once reviewed by "Variety" as a vaudeville performance, suddenly has a comeback. And now the newspapers tell us one of the Beatles is in love with a woman of 34. I mean, she is over 30. Are you ready for that? It's all too beautiful.

One wishes that television was just as unpredictable—particularly the weekend deluge of the supreme entertainment potboilers: The hypnotizing array of low-grade cartoons aimed at children of all ages. Consider, for instance, the classy outlook on the networks for the fall season:

Yaturday mornings on ABC-TV find such epics as "Casper," "The Adventures of Gulliver," "Spider-Man," "Fantastic Voyage," "Journey to the Center of the Earth," "The Fantastic Four" — and, after noon, "George of the Jungle."

Also in the afternoons on Saturday, ABC-TV will offer the pop music show, "American Bandstand," college football and "Wide World of Sports."

Saturdays on CBS-TV will be no less thrilling. The scheduled lineup, beginning in the morning, includes "Bugs Bunny-Road Runner," "Crazy Races," "Archie," "Batman - Superman," "Herculoids," "Shazzan," "Jonny Quest" and "Moby Dick," followed by "The Lone Ranger."

NBC-TV's Saturday mornings are aiming at putting out at least one major show that takes a more gentle approach for youngsters used to the cartoon violence and mayhem. This new program is the "Banana Bunch Adventure Hour."

Other scheduled entries for the network's early Saturday viewing include "Super Six," "Top Cat," "The Flintstones," "Samson," "Birdman" and "Super President."

ABC-TV continues this kind of cartoon deluge on Sunday mornings too, with series including "The Beatles," "Linus the Lionhearted," "King Kong" and "Bullwinkle."

But Sundays, of course, account for some of the best viewing on television. ABC-TV, for instance, will continue, in the new season, to offer the children's show "Discovery," the public affairs entry "Directions" and "Issues and Answers."

CBS-TV has the superb back-to-back threesome of "Lamp Unto My Feet," "Look Up And Live" and "Camera Three." And it will also present "Face the Nation," National Football League games and the half-hour show before these contests that gives fans a preview of them.

NBC-TV's Sundays, meanwhile, will continue to be distinguished by such religious entries as "The Catholic Hour" and "Eternal Light," and by "Meet the Press." And of coures the afternoons will be dominated by American Football League action.

Do you sometimes wonder what people did with their weekends before televisions came along? And don't you wish they would do it again?

Teens Booked In Murder Probe

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Four teen-agers were arrested yesterday in connection with the robbery and fatal shooting on April 10 of municipal railway bus driver Martin J. Whited.

A youth arrested previously was exonerated and freed after a lie detector test supported his claim of innocence.

Harbor Point Land Split Hearing Scheduled July 24

Hearing on an appeal by Harbor Point developer Stanley W. Taylor to force the County of Marin to permit him to divide East Strawberry Drive parcels into smaller lots has been scheduled in Marin Superior Court for 10 a.m. July 24.

The appeal, in the form of an application for a writ of mandate filed July 3, was the result of the county board of supervisors upholding on July 2 of a county planning commission denial of the further lot split.

Taylor, of San Francisco, previously won three-lot splits at 359 and 425 East Strawberry Drive, but failed in his attempt to add a fourth lot to each parcel.

A contempt proceeding by Taylor, charging that the planning commission hasn't complied with an April 17, 1967, order by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, was consolidated Tuesday with the appeal suit.

Judge Gardiner held that county zoning ordinance putting a minimum lot size development on the land was arbitrary and inconsistent with other development in the area. A March 16, 1965, ordinance increased the minimum lot size from 7,500 square feet to 20,000 square feet.

Taylor's suit termed this action capricious, creating many non-conforming properties.

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—Spirit Lake, in Dickinson County, is Iowa's largest lake.

Spirit Lake covers 5,684 acres. Four of the state's 10 largest lakes are in Dickinson County, in northwest Iowa.

Tiburon Quells Three-Acre Fire

A three-acre area was scorched by a grass fire which threatened homes on Acela Drive in Tiburon yesterday morning.

Five pieces of equipment and 14 men from the Tiburon fire department responded to the alarm at 11:08 a.m. The smoky fire was contained in an area bounded by Round Hill Road, the Marinero apartments and Acela Drive.

Tiburon fireman Ken Howie suffered from smoke inhalation, but did not require medical treatment. The cause of the fire is under investigation.

Cultivated trees and other plantings were damaged by the blaze, but there was no damage to buildings.

Attempt To Be Good Guy Is Almost Fatal

LIMA, Peru (UPI)—Antonio Carabatocto almost lost his life trying to be a good guy.

After accidentally breaking a record player at a fiesta, he tried to repair it with a pair of pliers. He forgot to pull out the plug, and got an electric shock that nearly killed him.

Baboon Flees Surgery Scalpel

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) —A full grown male baboon, to have been used for kidney transplant research, gave doctors at Karl Brèmer Hospital a vigorous chase when it escaped as it was about to be operated on.

It fled through a hospital window and was eventually cornered in the home of a police sergeant. A hospital official shot the baboon after it had spent 20 minutes in the house searching for food.

SWEET DREAMSHIP

Heinz Huth, 52, of Hamburg, Germany, lies down for a flight in his new "Dreamship." The 22-foot sailplane has a wingspan of 55 feet—and a fuselage less than two feet deep, so Huth must recline while flying. At its cruising altitude of 3,000 feet, the "Dreamship," can fly 32 miles without any updraft. Huth plans to enter next year's world gliding championships in Poland.

Latin American Stamp Show Set

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—An international philatelic exposition is scheduled to be held in Mexico City Nov. 1-9 under the auspices of the Mexican Communications Department.

It will be the first international philatelic exposition held in Latin America with the authorization of the Federation Internationale de Philatelic.

The Smithsonian Institution's Museum in Washington has promised to allow part of its famous stamp collection to be exhibited.

Airman Becomes An Eagle Scout

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Bernard T. Park ,20, Mansfield, worked for his military stripes and Boy Scout merit badges at the same time.

While serving in the U. S. Air Force at Formosa, the airman first class completed requirements for his Eagle award in Boy Scouts. He came home on leave to receive the Eagle award at a special Boy Scout Court of Honor.

Steel Could Be A Real 'Steal'

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — Interested in 70 gross tons of heavy steel, 28 gross ton of light steel or 40,000 pounds of aluminum scrap, all slightly battered and scarred?

The Smoky Hill Bomb and Gunnery Range of the Air Force has the metal for sale. Sealed bids are welcome.

40,000 Rail Ties To Be Replaced

BROOKVILLE, Kan. (AP) — Did you ever wonder how many railroad ties are necessary for a mile of track?

Union Pacific has begun unloading some of the 44,000 ties it says will be used to replace all of the ties between Brookville and Russell, Kan., a distance of 60 miles.

Sidewalk superintendents hereabout say that comes out to 733 and one-third ties per mile and they want to watch the guy who splits those rails into thirds.

Rules For Safety Under New Labor Law In Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Champaign County extension adviser Earl Bantz has informed farmers that the new child labor law, effective this year, does not permit youths under 16 to perform certain jobs on the farm.

Among the listed hazardous operations are:

Handling or using a blasting agent including dynamite, blasting caps, primer cord and black powder. Handling or applying anhydrous ammonia, certain toxic herbicides, pesticides and fungicides and cleaning equipment.

Serving as a flagman for aircraft. Driving a truck, bus or automobile on a public road.

Operating or riding a self-unloading bunk feeder wagon, feeder trailer, forage box wagon or auger trailer wagon. Operating or riding on a dump or hoist wagon, fork lift rotary tiller, or power-driven earth-moving, or trenching equipment.

Editor Suggested Famous Rodeo

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI)— The Cheyenne Frontier Days Rodeo, regarded today as one of the West's best, first was suggested in an editorial that appeared in the Cheyenne Sun-Leader in 1897.

"Inasmuch as Cheyenne is one of the oldest towns in the Far West, it is suggested we choose for a title 'Frontier Day,'" the editorial said.

"Why should not Cheyenne have a day of celebration the same as other towns? We could provide a characteristic frontier exhibition of prairie schooners, mounted cowboys and a display of Indian relics."

Radio Launches A Political Life

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Howard Pyle, twice governor of Arizona, made a talk here recently and explained how he moved into politics by way of radio.

He intended to be a musician and figured he could be exposed to the public via radio. After 25 years in broadcasting, he turned to politics, much to the dismay of his father, a Baptist minister.

After Pyle became president of the National Safety Council, he received this telegram from his father:

"You're your father's son after all. You keep them alive until some of the rest of us can save then."

Bishops Form Marriage Bureau

DUBLIN (AP) — The bishops of Connacht, six counties in the West of Ireland, have established a marriage introduction bureau in the Marian shrine village of Knock, County Mayo.

Archbishop Joseph Walsh of Tuam says: "The idea is that there are so many elderly bachelors and unmarried ladies who are more or less afraid of one another, afraid to make any advance, and the result is they don't get married and we have this terrible depopulation. We are trying to make it easier for them to meet."

Rare Michener Book On Prints Reissued

TOKYO (AP) — In 1962, if you were lucky — and somewhat affluent — you could have picked up a book by James A. Michener called "The Modern Japanese Print" for $150.

Having the money wasn't enough; you were lucky to have had the chance to acquire it. The limited edition of 475 copies — in imperial folio size, done up in handmade Japanese vellum, bound in three colors of fine-weave hemp — sold out almost at once.

The book, as Tokyo and Rutland, Vt., publisher Charles E. Tuttle explains, grew out of "a unique and challenging idea" Michener advanced in 1959, to choose the 10 best original modern Japanese prints, publish them in a deluxe edition and turn over "every penny the book earns" to the artist.

Michener, whose novels have earned more than a million dollars, got the idea after he had picked up 50 prints from his favorite Ginza dealer and tacked them on the wall of his hotel room.

"As I looked at the prints," he recalls in an introduction, "I could see behind each one the man who had carved these blocks and pressed that paper down into the splashed colors. They were as fine a group of men as I have ever known: schoolteachers, merchants, intellectual hermits, wild, gusty men who loved to drink, mountaineers, factory workers, poets of the most equisite sensibility, laughing men, sober men, tragic men. And as I saw their faces staring back at me I experienced a real sickness of the stomach and out of that sickness came this book.

"For I, by pure accident, worked in a field (writing) in a society (America) that assured me a decent living, a good living and some security for the future. But those men on the wall, most of them, with a far greater talent than mine, were laboring in a field (print-making) in a country (Japan) that provided only the most meager living, if at all."

For Michener, the gesture was not quixotic: he had given much of his time and an undisclosed amount of money, to encourage and help young writers and artists.

The print-makers whose works were selected were Hirasuka Unichi, Maekawa Sempan, Mori Yoshitoshi, Watanabe Sadao, Kinoshita Tomio, Shima Tamami, Azechi Umetaro, Iwami Reika, Yoshida Masaji and Maki Haku.

Now, Tuttle and Michener are making the 1962 masterpiece available to the man with the champagne taste and the beer pocketbook. Reissued in a more modest but still handsome format, "The Modern Japanese Print — an appreciation," with Michener's affectionate and knowledgeable comments intact, went on the bookshelves in the United States this month for $5. It already is out in Japan where it sells for $3.50.

The prints — also reproduced in this edition — were chosen from 275 submitted by 120 Japanese artists. The judges were Carl Zigrosser, director of the Department of Prints of the Philadelphia Museum of Art; Oliver Statler, author of Japanese Inn; Nathan Polowetzky, then in Tokyo, now Newsfeatures editor of The Associated Press; and Elsie Grilli, art critic of the Japan Times.

Montana Law School Plans Aid For Indians

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — An Indian Bill of Rights which may be used nationally is one of the notable products of the Montana Defender Project, a three-pronged program of legal aid at the University of Montana.

Work with cell block petitions and related matters for prison inmates has produced another national model, this one dealing with the effect of retention papers on inmates.

Student effort in some cases "has prevented what otherwise would have been a miscarriage of justice," says the director of the project, William F. Crowley of the university's Law School.

The Montana Defender Project is the only one among several across the nation which deals specifically with Indians, which Crowley calls "our depressed minority."

William J. Jameson, senior federal district judge of Montana and a founder of the Montana project, said about 80 per cent of the criminal cases in Montana's federal courts are offenses arising on Indian reservations. These lie 100-400 miles from where the courts meet. The state itself is the nation's fourth largest in area but in the bottom quarter in population.

Indian criminal cases present special jurisdictional problems as to whether they go to tribal, state or federal courts. More than 95 per cent of the Indians charged with crime in federal court quality for assigned counsel, Jameson said.

In the project's work with prisoners, the Montana Supreme Court asked that the project investigate the case of every prisoner who raised a question about his conviction or sentence.

The project also aims toward practical education for students.

The students do a lot of investigative work, which takes them into the field as well as into the law library.

One student pointed to "the great deal of difference between a textbook problem and a man's freedom.

"Both may require research," he said, "but the motivation is much greater when a man's freedom is at stake, especially when you've met and interviewed the man."

The model Indian code was developed by Patrick C. Sweeney, who worked on the Crow Reservation in southeastern Montana as a legal assistant. He was graduated from the university this year.

Crowley said the tribe had been trying for 30 years to get a new law code and asked Sweeney to draft it. This spring Congress passed a civil rights law which placed Indians for the first time under federal courts with rights of appeal from tribal courts.

Sweeney's code has been recommended to the secretary of the Interior by Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont.

The work with reference to retainers filed by one state against a convict in prison in another state is being used nationally as a model.

"It has made quite a little difference all over the country," Crowley said. "Four times out of five, the retainer is used as a device to increase the man's sentence."

The defender project was funded by the Ford Foundation and state and federal sources for a thre-year period which ends in 1969. It has been preparing to generate its own financing, plus receiving aid from the university. Federal money still willl be available for work with Indians.

Synthetic Food May Help Defeat Starvation Ogre

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)— A new synthetic food, designed as a dietary supplement for underfed people around the world, has been developed by scientists at the University of Michigan.

The food, called the Batina seed, is composed of cereal flowers such as oats, barley and corn, tested legume flour, wheat germs, dehydrated yeast and vitamin and mineral supplements.

Scientists estimated that most nations of the world could produce the food using only local food sources at a minimal cost.

When raw the seed can be cooked in water to produce a gel desirable in many rice dishes. It also can be toasted with a variety of plentiful but low vitamin foods to produce a balanced meal.

Pill Being Made For Bird Control

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — A zoology professor at the University of Missouri is directing a project aimed at developing birth control pills for birds.

William H. Elder says the pills are a humane way to cut down the population of unwanted birds such as pigeons. He said the pills are food pellets or grain treated with an antifertility compound and are supplied to birds at regular feeding grounds.

The pills, he added, work by inhibiting egg laying. He said the compound, similar to chemicals used to keep down cholesterol, is harmless.

In tests at Moberly, which had about 1,200 pigeons concentrated downtown, inhibition of egg laying was reported 89 per cent complete for three months.

Governor Not For Hotel Tax

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii Gov. John A. Burns says the state should not have a tax on hotel rooms.

"I think this is a very dangerous thing to embark on," Burns said when asked to comment on suggestions that the state adopt some form of a tourist tax.

Burns said tourists should not be singled out for special taxation. He said they already carry their share of the tax burden in the form of excise taxes on retail purchases.

Motorcyclists Not Always To Blame

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Experts have concluded that motocyclists caused less than half the accidents that involved their machines and other vehicles during 1967.

Motorcyclists between 16 and 20 years of age made up the largest age group involved in accidents causing death or injury reports the National Automobile Club.

Lava Discovered In Antarctica

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Scientists have found molten lava in a vent on the top of misty Mount Erebus in the frozen wastes of Antarctica.

A research team from the University of Michgan, using infrared camera techniques, made a two-day aerial survey of the region recently.

They said a study of films obtained over Mount Erebus revealed molten lava in the throat of its summit crater. They said however that there was no active volcano as such in the region, although seamen have often reported seeing smoke over the area.

Active Protest

CANNOCK, England (AP) — Rev. H. L. Townshend, vicar of Cannock and rural dean of Rugeley, tore up his British passport before a 200-strong congregation at a Sunday evening service in protest against the new law stopping free immigration of Asians from Kenya. Normally, said the vicar, he did not preach political sermons but in this instance he felt there was a plain moral issue: Britain had broken her word.

Gradual Tanning Is Held The Best Way

NEW YORK (UPI)—First exposure to summer sun should not last more than 15 minutes, according to first aid experts. Increase exposure daily to asquire a painless tan, avoid skin blistering. Protect eyes with tinted glasses while tanning.

If you wish to avoid marks on temple from sunglasses, cover eyes with large cosmetic puffs instead. Should you sunburn, apply antiseptic first aid cream immediately to affected area to relieve pain, reduce blistering.

Living Is Longer

NEW DELHI (UPI)—A child born in India today can expect to live 50 years, according to government statistics. Only 15 years ago, life expectancy in India was 32 years.

Blood Boils In Test But Chimp Survives

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (UPI) —A chimpanzee at Holloman Air Force Base's Aeromedical Research Lab has made a monkey out of medical science.

The chimp survived with no apparent ill effects for three and one-half minutes in a decompression chamber at a simulated altitude of 350,000 feet without oxygen or pressure suit—despite the fact that blood boils above 65,000 feet with no protective gear.

"We predicted this would never happen," said Lt. Col Clyde Kratochvil, head of the laboratory. "We always thought above 65,000 feet the blood boils —and it does. We also thought this meant death in 10 to 15 seconds. But four hours afterward, the chimp was back punching buttons and doing other tasks just as well as always."

Kratochvil explained that the unconscious chimpanzee's body began swelling as the pressure inside his body became greater than outside pressure with the increasing altitude.

"He passed out in 10 seconds and we think his blood was vaporizing," Kratochvil said. "Yet afterward he came right back to normal. There was no blood damage, no brain damage, nothing at all wrong. It doesn't make sense, but that's the way it comes out."

The doctor estimated "conservatively" that due to these new findings, an astronaut could apparently last for two minutes at such an altitude if his space cabin or pressure suit developed a leak.

"These are probably the most exciting studies we've done for the Air Force and NASA (National Aeronautics and Space Administration) and of course you can't do these with men," he said.

Kratochvil stressed that the laboratory is very cautious with the animals and tries to avoid experiments which might kill.

"We're hunting for the subtle differences which show a man is going to get into trouble before he is grossly damaged," he explained. "If the chimp is as close in relationship to man as we think he is, he will serve as a predictor for what will happen to a man."

He said soon they would be experimenting with chimps at altitudes over 350,000 feet "to search out an end point to find where one would anticipate damage."

The laboratory has 180 chimpanzees—the largest single collection in captivity anywhere. To observe them under a fairly normal outdoor environment, a $250,000 outdoor home was built for them covering 30 acres surrounded by a moat so they can't escape. Visitors have come from all over the world to study the method of knowing the animals and also to study the animals themselves in their man-made free society.

So far, to Kratochvil's delight, three babies have been born and more are expected. For the first time, he explained, the laboratory has complete background on the chimps, including who the parents were, blood types and the opportunity to study them directly from birth through maturity.

To meet the situation, a nursery has just been completed at the laboratory, complete with the most modern pediatric facilities.

Population Is Up In Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) —Hawaii acquired 38,155 new residents in 1967 with males outnumbering females by 40 per cent.

The influx was the largest since 1950 when the state began compiling data on the number and nature of new residents.

Half of the new residents were under 24 years old and less than 2 per cent were 60 or older. Most of the intended residents — 33 per cent — were from California, Oregon or Washington.

Sea-Going Radio

NEW YORK (UPI)—The newest accessory to fun in the sun this summer is a novel portable radio designed to float in a swimming pool or fresh water lake and provide listening entertainment for swimmers, boaters or simply floaters.

Indian Comeback

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (UPI)—Guyana's American Indians are having one of the greatest population explosions in history. They now number 34,000 and their average age is less than 10 years. A decade ago, disease and alcohol threatened them with extinction.

Visits School On Normal Day

NEW DELHI (AP) — President Zakir Husian recently expressed a desire to visit a school on a "normal working day." His staff went to work on the request.

When the president arrived at the school, he was greeted at the gate by the Board of Governors, the principal and student leaders. The National Cadet Corps passed in review. A frenzy of activity took place in the classrooms, with special puppetry shows, photo exhibits and cooking competition.

A New Delhi columnist questioned whether this was a "normal working day."

College Gets Bargain Worth A Million

SEATTLE (UPI)—Officials of Seattle Community College went shopping for a ship and came up with a bargain basement bonanza. They were able to buy a 189-foot Coast Guard ship, valued at $1 million, for only $250.

The ship is the Heather, a buoy tender, which the college was able to buy through a government surplus arrangement. The school will use the vessel in fisheries and maritime courses.
